Harding, In Personal Appeal To Congress, Asks For Approval Of British Debt Settlement Plan

PRESIDENT STATES WHY ACTION ON AGREEMENT IS NEED AT ONCE

Over Protest of Physician He Goes to Capitol to Read His Message

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—President Harding asked congress today to approve the settlement that has been concluded on the British debt of $4,600,000,000 and coupled with his request an ardent plea for action on the ship subsidy bill, now water-logged and facing defeat by inaction in the senate.

Overriding his physician's objections against personal appearance before congress while convalescing from a severe cold, Mr. Harding went in person to the capitol and read his message to the assembled house and senate, seeking to drive home his arguments in person rather than submit them to the colorless recital of a reading clerk.

The president's message was one of the shortest he has ever delivered to congress. He was business-like. He read the terms of the settlement agreed upon and then left to congressional discretion the manner in which it would be ratified—either by resolution or by amending the present debt funding law.

Coupled with his plea for speedy action was a warning against tacking on any "riders" which will seek to dispose of the money which Great Britain will annually pay the United States—in effect, a warning to the advocates of a soldiers' bonus against seeking to tie up the funds in advance.

"I am not unmindful," said the president, "of the disposition to pledge the application of anticipated payments in giving sanction to settlement. It is not necessary to remind congress that the use of monies secured in repayment of war loans has been pledged by the very grant of authority making the loans," i. e., the retirement of liberty bonds.

"Of course," he continued, "the repeal of that committment is always within the authority of congress, if such a repeal is considered wise."

The president expressed the opinion, however, that it would be better to ratify the agreement forthwith, with no strings attached.

Unstinted praise was accorded Great Britain for the business-like manner in which she recognized her obligations to the United States, and has now undertaken to discharge it.

The British-American accord on this controversal issue, the president said, would stand as a great object lesson to a world that is "staggering in discouragement and bowed with the sorrows of wars that were and fear of new wars which humanity is praying may be averted."

The agreement means more than the mere money involved, Mr. Harding said.

"It is a recommitment of the English-speaking world to the validity of contract, it is in effect a plight against war and war expenditures and a rigid adherence to that production and retrenchment which enhances stability precisely as it dscharges obligations.

Call for Integrity

"The call of the world is for integrity of agreement, the sanctity of covenants, the validity of contracts. Here is the first clearing of war-clouded skies in a debt-burdened world, the sincere commitment of one great nation to validate its financial pledges and discharge its obligations in the highest sense of financial honor."

No hard bargain was driven with the British gov-

Last of American Soldiers Back From Service in Europe

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 7.—Back from service of years in a foreign land with a record of dignified courage and coolness amid trying conditions, the last of the American soldiers of the army of occupation in Germany entered Savannah harbor aboard the transport St. Mihiel this morning—in sight of home shores at last.

Savannah, in holiday mood, was waiting at the dock to give the soldiers a welcome, and along with the people of Savannah stood groups of state and national representatives. Local reception committees and Savannah delegations went down the bay at 9 o'clock to meet the in-coming transport off Tybee bar and to escort them to the pier.

Military leaders accompanied the civilian and official group. They were Major-General Charles Farnsworth, chief of infantry of the United States army, and his aide, R. L. Shoemaker. They were accompanied by J. Rodney Cohen of Augusta, commander of the American Legion for Georgia. Lieutenant-Colonel T. L. Huston of New York, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, also was present.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL BONDS INDORSED

Expansion of System Urged By Foothill Assn. at Meeting Tuesday

School bonds for the expansion of the grammar school system were endorsed last night at the Grand View school by the Foothill Improvement association.

The condition of the streets in the vicinity of the Grand View school and in the Grand View district in general was the subject of a discussion in which the displeasure of a number of taxpayers was voiced in very definite terms. The executive committee was requested to confer with the city administration immediately with a view to ascertaining if some of the worst streets can not be improved at once.

A formal opening of the new library sub-station at the Grand View school will be held as soon as the books and equipment arrive, according to the report of Mrs. Myrtle Buckman.

Washington Party

A Washington party at the Grand View school February 20, was announced by Mrs. Charles Elsperman of 1540 Glenwood road, chairman of the entertainment committee.

The Pacific Electric is to be requested to install overhead shelters at the Pacific and Senorita stops. An extra car will be requested for the Burbank car leaving Glendale at 8:12 a. m., because it is already overcrowded before being boarded by school children. Decision to make these requests were made at last night's meeting.

Uncle John Says:

Mary knows lots of women that was awful patriotic durin' the war and she honors 'em for it, too. But she says she knows a couple of these women that are downright disloyal to their home town, and Mary thinks this is the same principle as bein' disloyal to country, only, of course, not so bad. She says true patriotism is a grand sentiment, but not so grand but what the home town can be took in, too. Sometimes it's easier to be true in big things than in little ones.

MONTROSE LINE IS GROWING RAPIDLY, REPORT SHOWS

Large Increase in Number of Passengers Are Carried Since Year 1918

MORE than one half million passengers were carried over the Glendale & Montrose railway lines out of Glendale during 1922 without a casualty of consequence, but more remarkable is the fact that this traffic represents a 181 per cent increase since 1918.

This information was given out today by W. M. Mills, auditor of the Montrose system, which extends from Maryland avenue and Broadway in Glendale to Eagle Rock, Montrose and La Crescenta, serving the exclusive Verdugo Woodlands section of the city in Verdugo Canyon, also the rapidly developing Sparr Heights.

Under the management of Preston L. Hatch the old narrow gauge line which originally was built to Eagle Rock to give the city a connection with the Los Angeles yellow car line, has developed into a prosperous interurban system which now is ready to electrify the Union Pacific line on South Glendale avenue, giving another ingress and egress to Los Angeles.

In 1918 only 200,739 passengers were carried on the little red cars. The last year saw 563,730 making the trip through the green Verdugo hills to their homes. It is estimated that more than 1000 people are carried to and fro each day now and making this city their trading center. However, allowances must be made for those taking advantage of the line to ride only a few city blocks.

Principal Increase

According to Mr. Mills, the principal increase in traffic has come on the Eagle Rock line and this binds more closely together the sister cities. It is estimated that fully 500 wage earners have established homes in the hills—at Montrose or La Crescenta—each year since 1919, and these contribute largely to the business done by the transportation concern. An average increase of 100,000 passengers a year is noted which reveals the rapidity with which this particular section of Southern California is growing.

A maximum of service and mileage is given at minimum fares, according to Mr. Hatch, who is very optimistic over the improved conditions which augur

Glendale Now Hub of Suburban Building

Glendale is the hub of the suburban building wheel which is fast surrounding Los Angeles with solid streets of homes and community centers.

That is the statement of J. F. Stanford, 112½ South Brand boulevard, who has been carrying on construction projects in Pasadena, Burbank, Hollywood, South Pasadena and Eagle Rock, as well as Glendale.

"I note other local contractors who have work in these other communities which show that Glendale is the center for a large share of contractors and builders outside of the metropolis," added Mr. Stanford.

Mention was made of a half dozen firms who keep their Glendale crews busy elsewhere, while there are scores more who devote their time exclusively to the fastest growing city.

CENTRAL AMERICA REPUBLICS AGREE ON RELATIONS

Limitation of Armaments And Other Policies Are Set in Writing

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—In agreeing to limit their armies and to settle their disputes by peaceful conference, instead of by resort to force, the five republics of Central America have furnished a moral lesson to the world, Secretary Hughes declared here today in an address before the closing session of the Central American conference.

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The conference of Central American republics—the miniature Washington arms conference—came to an end here today with the signing, in open plenary session, of eleven conventions and three protocols affecting the relations of the United States with Central America and those of the Central American republic among themselves.

With Secretary of State Hughes as chairman, the conference has concluded a treaty of peace and amity, a convention for the establishment of a Central American arbitration tribunal, a conference on the limitation of armaments, and numerous other agreements expected to prove of marked benefit to all concerned.

Under the terms of the agreement for the limitation of armaments, the various Central American countries bind themselves to limit their standing armies and national guard as follows:

Guatemala, 5200; Salvador, 4200; Honduras, 2500; Nicaragua, 2500, and Costa Rica, 2000. This limitation is to continue in force for five years.

The contracting powers further agree not to export or permit the exportation of arms or munitions or any other kind of military stores from one Central American republic to another; to limit the number of aircraft which can be used in time of war to ten; and agree to acquire no warships.

Finally the contracting powers agree to furnish one another, semi-annually, during the life of the convention, full reports on the measures adopted by each government for the execution of the convention.

VARIED FEATURES AT COUNTRY CLUB

Oakmont to Have Swimming Pool, Attractive Building And Golf Course

A playground in the heart of the Verdugos will be offered Southern Californians in the completion of the Oakmont Country club house and mammoth swimming pool and the development of the 109 acres of natural golf terrain, fronting for half a mile on Verdugo road.

English architecture has been the inspiration for the new club house, which clubmen of California predict as one of the most attractive in the state.

Covering a ground area of 300 feet by fifty feet the building will provide accommodations for every type of club activity. Plans call for women's lounge and card room, dressing room, showers, baths and locker room.

The plans further provide for

TURKEY WILL NOT SIGN TREATY AT PRESENT, CLAIM

Ismet Pasha and Leader of Russian Delegation at Lausanne Depart

BULLETIN

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Turkish government's order for foreign warships to leave Smyrna is not regarded by Great Britain as an act of war or even an unfriendly act, it was announced at the admiralty this afternoon.

LAUSANNE, Feb. 7.—The Turkish and Russian delegations in the Near East peace conference, headed respectively by Ismet Pasha and George Tchitcherin, departed today. The treaty is still unsigned and there are no indications that it will be in the immediate future.

That Ismet believes the negotiations will be renewed was indicated by a statement he made to International News Service just before he boarded the train.

"I do not consider that the peace conference is ended," said Ismet. "I am availing myself of this opportunity to go to Angora to report to my government. The future course of developments is up to the Angora assembly."

Ismet Pasha said he planned to return to Lausanne in three or four weeks, indicating it would be a month before the treaty is signed, if it is signed at all.

Ismet expects to reach Angora Saturday or Sunday and will at once report to the cabinet and the national assembly. The assembly will then decide whether or not to accept the allies' terms with the new modifications that have been proposed.

Awaits Decision

The British cabinet is expected "to sit tight" until Angora makes a decision one way or another.

The British representative in Lausanne was expected to see Ismet and ask him what terms Angora was likely to demand, but was told that this was entirely up to the national assembly and that no one could speak in advance for that body.

Much annoyance was caused by false reports on Tuesday that France had notified Great Britain that the Turks were ready to sign. There was another report that the Turks had postponed their departure until Saturday in hope the negotiations would be reopened in the meantime. Ismet Pasha said he did not know the source of these rumors and that no such information had come from him.

Angora's order for foreign warships to leave Smyrna is causing much apprehension lest the Turkish government is preparing for war.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha is understood to be in Angora.

Pageant Queens to Be Chosen for Exposition

Among the plans adopted to arouse interest in Glendale's coming Merchant Industrial Exposition, which is to be held here in the latter end of May, is one that will call for the election of a "Queen of the Pageant" from Glendale and from all of the towns within a thirty or forty-mile radius of this city.

This, said President Jesse E. Smith of the Chamber of Commerce, at the annual dinner last night, will mean that additional interest in the exposition will be shown in the choice of representative beauties to maintain the honor and prestige of their various towns at the ten-day show, and it will also draw a greatly increased attendance to the exposition.

Details of the conditions under which the pageant queens are to be chosen will be announced shortly, as it is planned to start the voting for them as soon as possible, to arouse and maintain the interest of the adjacent communities at fever pitch from the start to finish.

Britain Decides to Defy Turkey; Will Not Recall Ships

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Great Britain decided this evening to defy Turkey. The foreign office announced that the British would disregard the Turkish demand that all allied warships leave Smyrna. Another British cruiser was ordered to Symrna to reinforce the British warcraft in the harbor.

Two British regiments were ordered to the Near East this afternoon to reinforce the troops already in Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 7.—All Turkish army officers, both the active and those on the retired list, received orders from the Angora government today to present themselves for registration.

The allied high commissioners have protested against Angora's orders that all allied warships must leave Smyrna. Turkey was warned that "grave consequences may follow any attempt to coerce the allies."

The French colony at Smyrna has requested permission to embark upon a crusier.

MEMBERS MAKE SUGGESTIONS FOR ORGANIZATION'S PLANS IN AIDING GLENDALE'S PROGRESS

Number of Civic Questions Prove of Much Interest In General Discussion at Annual Gathering Last Night

THE sixteen projects enumerated herewith will comprise the main elements of the 1923 program of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, according to the plans adopted at the annual forum dinner of the organization last night, when President Jesse E. Smith called on the members to suggest what they considered the city's most pressing needs.

Plans for the consideration of the sewage problem, he stated, are now well under way, and a solution of this difficulty is expected within the year.

In connection with the local schools, the main problem at present is the necessity for enlarging the accommodations for the pupils in the grammar schools, and this will be taken up at an early date. Prof. Paul E. Webb, a member of the Glendale Union high school faculty, asked that representatives of the faculty be given places on the committee to be appointed to deal with school questions, and he promised that the teachers would assist, in every manner in their power, in seeking a way out of the difficulties that present themselves in connection with the educational system of the city.

The need for a more adequate system of transportation, not only between Glendale and Los Angeles, but in and around this city itself, was stressed in asking for the appointment of a committee to handle this subject, and this phase of the matter will occupy an important place in the deliberations of the committee.

It is probable, said President Smith, that a definite announcement regarding a new hotel will be made by the Chamber of Commerce well within the present year, as a committee now has this matter in hand and will submit the result of their investigations to the organization shortly.

The matter of the establishment of a comfort station, that was defeated last year, will be taken up again, as will also the matter of street repairs wherever they may, in the opinion of the members, be needed. The fight for lower fares on street cars will also be resumed, and special attention will be paid to the plan for the erection of a new station by the Southern Pacific company.

In discussing the establishment of a community chest, President Smith stated that the people of Glendale are asked each year to contribute to various national and local organizations that need money to carry on their work, and he advocated the formation of a permanent fund from which such contributions could be taken as required, thus eliminating the

JUDGE EMERY TO RESIGN POSITION

Press of Private Law Work Causes Him to Give Up Public Office

Owen C. Emery, justice of the peace of Burbank township, which includes the city of Glendale, has forwarded his resignation to the Los Angeles county board of supervisors, according to reliable information reaching The Glendale Evening News.

It is understood that Judge Emery is resigning because the press of his legal practice will not permit him to further continue in office. He is also head of the Glendale Credit association and will, it is understood, continue in that position.

Judge Emery was appointed by the board of supervisors to be justice of the peace of Burbank township when Harry Miller resigned. At the general election he was elected to retain the position without opposition.

Steady increase of his private practice, however, caused Judge Emery to make the decision that, in justice to himself, he must resign. The board of supervisors will name his successor.

Vessels Come Together in Dense Fog; No Lives Lost, Is Report

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—The Matson liner Wilhelmina and the steam schooner Sierra crashed together when seven miles west of San Francisco lightship early today in a dense fog.

The Wilhelmina sustained but slight damage, although she took considerable water. The Sierra, laden with lumber, is in a sinking condition.

The Wilhelmina stood by the smaller vessel until tugs reached the scene. The Wilhelmina was in-bound from Honolulu, but had only a light passenger list this trip—about a score. She carries a crew of 120. The Sierra, outbound for San Pedro, was reported to have a crew o fthirty.

The Wilhelmina wirelessed her offices that she was in no danger at any time. The sea was reported calm and the fog lifting rapidly.

Cuts Across Bow

The Sierra is reported to have cut across the bow of the Wilhelmina without sounding her siren. Prompt action on the part of the Wilhelmina in reversing her engines probably prevented a more serious crash.

One of the passengers on board the Wilhelmina is John Francis Neylan, publisher of the San Francisco Call.

Following the arrival of the tugs at the scene the Wilhelmina proceeded to the bay, entering at 11 o'clock. She proceeded at once to her berth at the Matson docks.

Chamber Of Commerce, In Annual Meeting, Plans For Further Activities

REV. HENRY I. RASMUS GIVES POINTS TO BENEFIT GLENDALE

Pastor of First Methodist Church Makes Main Address at Gathering; Many Big Projects Ahead of Organization

By RALPH A. LYND
Member of Evening News Staff

ENTHUSIASM of the highest order marked the annual forum dinner of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce that was held last night in the auditorium of the organization on South Brand boulevard, when the work of the past year was reviewed and the program for the coming year's work was adopted with the endorsement of the large and representative gathering of the members, among whom there were a notable percentage of the new members who have recently joined the organization.

President Jesse E. Smith was chairman and he kept the program moving in a rapid fire manner that prevented any long delays and that brought the maximum of business before the members in the minimum of time.

Following a piano solo by Mrs. Orrie E. Ghrist, President Smith called on V. M. Hollister, the retiring president, who expressed his appreciation of the support that had been accorded him by the board of directors and by the members in general during his term of office, and he bespoke for his successor in office the same generous assistance as had been given himself, urging them to work for the good of Glendale and for the development of the city's activities through the Chamber of Commerce.

Call of Glendale

Rev. Henry I. Rasmus, pastor of the First Methodist church, the speaker of the evening, chose as the subject of his address "The Call of Glendale, the Beautiful," and pointed out what he considered the three main points that will make Glendale a greater and more beautiful city in which to live and work.

After referring to the class of citizenship which Glendale boasts, and urging that the same high standard of its people be maintained in all future time, Dr. Rasmus declared that the first call to Glendale is the determination to do the big things. It is just as easy, he stated, to aim at something high and noble as at something small and unimportant, and he added that the big things in city and community cannot be accomplished without the Chamber of Commerce.

The second call is to a strong faith in the city and its future, and this faith, based on the possibilities that Glendale boasts, is easy of adoption. Faith is the foundation of personal and civic and national intercourse, declared the speaker, and on it rests the commercial supremacy of America, as contrasted with the present commercial condition of the tottering wrecks of European nations. Faith in Glendale, he claimed, is an absolutely necessary ingredient for the future progress of the city.

Character Needed

The third call is for the character of the city and its people. Dr. Rasmus contrasted character and reputation, showing that the latter is something that is far removed, in many instances, from the things that constitute the real character of a man or a city. There are signs to be seen in Glendale, the speaker asserted, that show the character of the city, but the high character of Glendale, he declared, must not be bartered for any temporary commercial advantage that carries with it any taint that would lower the high standing of Glendale in the sightest degree. Commercial supremacy and development can be too dearly bought, said Dr. Rasmus, by the sacrifice of honor and self-respect to certain commercial interests that bring with them a lowering of standards, and Glendale must guard against such a sacrifice if she is to maintain her present proud position and to attain to the rewards that the immediate future holds out for her.

In conclusion Dr. Rasmus asserted that Glendale could be made the fairest city in America and that the Chamber of Commerce could be made the most active organization of its kind in the country by the right kind of support and co-operation on the part of its members and the citizens of the town.

Special interest attached to the second musical number by Mrs. Ghrist on account of the fact that she rendered Alfred Greenfeldt's Romance, one of the compositions of the teacher with whom she studied during her recent stay in Vienna.

Glendale's Problems

The solution of Glendale's problems in the coming year, said President Jesse E. Smith, must occupy practically all of the attention of the Chamber of Commerce, and, while a few of these problems may be said to be of a perplexing nature, there are none of them that cannot be solved if they are approached in the right manner. The chief problem, he declared, is that of sewage disposal, and in this matter there are several legal points that will have to be straightened out before any definite success can be attained, but even these points are not insuperable, he added, and he is hopeful that this year will see a marked advance in the plans to provide Glendale with a sewer system that will solve this important problem in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Smith stated that the information now in the hands of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce led to the firm belief that the building permits for January, which ran over a million dollars, would be surpassed by those for February, in spite of the fact that this month is so much shorter than last.

In reviewing the work of last year Mr. Smith spoke of the work that had been done by L. W. Chobe in designing for so many years the Glendale float that has won first place in the Pasadena tournament of roses and who has thus done so much to bring honor to this city. He also paid a special compliment to Dr. Jessie E. Russell, who, as secretary of the civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce, labored indefatigably to bring to completion a number of plans that had been launched by the organization.

Criticism Is Asked

The president asked that the members read regularly the monthly bulletin issued by the Chamber of Commerce, which shows the work that is being done through the office, and he urged that any constructive criticism or suggestions would be gladly welcomed by the officers of the body. Among other plans that the organization now has in train is one to co-operate with the City Council in planning for a sewer system, and for this purpose W. E. Hewitt and Peter L. Ferry have been appointed to meet in conference with the city officials on this matter to seek a solution of the problem.

Following the adoption of the official program of work for the coming year President Smith asked the new members present to rise in their places and tell their names and their business to their fellow members.

Announcement was made by the president of the musical play to be presented at the T. D. & L. theatre by the Shrine Club tomorrow night, the play to be given by the Community Players at the Glendale theatre on the 15th of this month, and the lecture here on the night of February 22 by Senator George H. Cartwright of Utah.

Chamber Of Commerce Directors, In Annual Report, Reveal Scope Of Year's Work To Aid Glendale

THE financial statement of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, as presented to the members at the annual meeting last night, showed that the organization wound up the fiscal year ending December 31, 1922, with a balance in its favor of $2,663.36, after disbursing a total of $21,387.70 during the year.

Receipts from membership dues for last year were $18,595.75, and this, with $24.50 interest due from the bank, brought the total of the year's receipts up to $19,620.25. There still remains, according to the report, $1465 due from unpaid membership fees for 1922 to be added to the assets with which the organization finished up the year.

Every department of the work of the Chamber of Commerce is taken up in the report furnished by the secretary, James M. Rhoades, and special interest attaches to the statement that, two years ago, there were not more than six or eight manufactories in Glendale. The list published now shows that there are sixty industrial concerns located in the city, brought here, in large measure, through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce.

Applications from many more firms were received during the year, asking for data on Glendale and the opportunities her for various kinds of enterprises, and while not all of these firms established themselves here, the average from among the applicants was a high one.

A special chapter in the report is devoted to the Glendale aviation field that is now being placed in shape for the erection of factories and for landing space for flying machines, and the share of the Chamber of Commerce in assisting in securing the tract of land and in encouraging the project is recounted.

The activities of the Chamber of Commerce in every line of activity affecting Glendale are briefly recounted in the report, with special stress on the work of the civics committee and the various projects in which it took a part during the past year.

Number Of Suggestions Made At Annual Meeting Of Organization

necessity of organizing drives to solicit for each of these organizations at separate times.

Community Loyalty

The necessity for the inclusion of a committee to inculcate community loyalty among the people of Glendale was stressed by A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News, who declared that no amount of flag waving and oratory could compensate for failure to support local commercial organizations by every one in the city. The success of Glendale business houses, declared Mr. Cowan, depends on the support of the people of the city, and it should be a matter of pride for Glendale people to spend their money with the firms that are doing business here and that are dependent on local support for their existence.

Congestion of traffic on the boulevards and bridges leading into Glendale was Dr. Jessie E. Russell's reason for asking that the agenda of the Chamber of Commerce include a plan to secure better approaches to the city by linking up the present highway system with other roads that would afford additional traffic arteries.

Telephone rates and the improvement of the local service will be the chief concern of the committee to be named by the Chamber of Commerce, as will also be the question of the lighting of the city streets.

In considering the erection of a public auditorium, it was suggested that, as the new high school auditorium will have a seating capacity of 2000, it might be possible to secure this building for any public gatherings that would call for accommodations for an audience of this size. The question of a civic center will also be taken up by the organization during the year and steps will be taken to act in this matter for the best interests of the city.

Improvement of the postal service in Glendale will be the concern of another committee, and the co-operation of Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson will be enlisted to secure a system of deliveries and collections that will keep pace with Glendale's growth.

Pick Committees

President Smith advised the members that the committees would be named by the board of directors to carry on the various lines of activity embraced in the year's program, but he added that cards would be mailed to all of the members with the request that they state which committee they would prefer to work on, as he knew that many of the members were more interested in some projects than in others and he felt that they could be of greatest value in helping solve the problems in which they were most vitally concerned. In every case the work will be handled by standing committees.

A number of suggestions were offered during the evening, notably by some of the new members of the Chamber of Commerce, as to the plans to be adopted for carrying on the work of the organization during the year, and these suggestions in most cases will be laid before the committees and will be taken up by them and acted upon.

Legislative Possibilities Are Told By Assemblyman Frank C. Weller

Some legislative possibilities were discussed by Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale at the Chamber of Commerce dinner last night, chief of these being the coming fight on the re-apportionment of the state's legislative districts on the basis of the 1920 federal census.

The constitution of the state of California provides, Mr. Weller said, that the legislative districts be re-apportioned following the publication of the census on the basis of population shown by the federal figures, and Governor Friend W. Richardson is pledged to see that the present legislature acts on this matter. Considerable opposition has developed to the project, said Mr. Weller, among the San Francisco representatives and among the men from the agricultural counties, who are raising the alarm that Los Angeles county seeks to control the politics of the state, and that re-apportionment would mean that no legislation favorable to the agricultural districts would be possible in the event that the southern counties secured additional representation in the legislature.

This is nothing more or less than a smoke screen, declared Mr. Weller, as Los Angeles county itself is mainly agricultural, and other farming sections of the state would have nothing to fear from the re-apportionment of the state's legislative districts.

Mr. Weller also referred to a bill that he has introduced in the present session, which provides for the construction of sewers, gas and light mains, by one city through the streets of another city. This measure, he asserted, is regarded as good legislation and its passage is almost certain, as he has been assured by Los Angeles city officials that no attempt will be made to oppose its passage by any of the representatives elected from that city.

The introduction of between 2000 and 2500 bills in the present session of the legislature, said Mr. Weller, places a heavy responsibility on the members, as it is almost impossible for any one man, in the time at his disposal, to master the contents of all of them and to vote for the best interests of the state, but he assured his hearers that he would try and vote right on every measure that came up for passage.

City Engineers Plan Dance for Feb. 22

Washington's birthday, February 22, has been selected by the engineering department of the city administration as the date for its third dance. Such a good time was had at the previous two dances that all interested are looking forward to this event.

TRUSTEES DECIDE ON OPEN DITCH FOR DRAINAGE

Cost of Improvement Will Be About $1500, Says City Engineer

One of the subjects that has occupied the attention of the city officials of Eagle Rock for the past several months, as well as that of numerous taxpayers in the Linden way and Glen Eyrie section, came to a focus at the last meeting of the city board, when the latter decided definitely and finally to adopt the plan formerly outlined and run an open alley way or drain ditch instead of a pipe line to drain that section.

Numerous petitions have been before the Eagle Rock board at divers times for and against the proposition. Some of the petitions had the same names for and against the proposed improvement. Delegations have appeared at the board meetings for weeks protesting the improvement or asking that somthing be done to relieve the situation.

Objections Stated

One of the largest audiences on record was on hand Monday night. Several property owners voiced their objections and others sustained the position of the board. In the main, the objections appeared to come for the most part from those who opposed putting in a pipe line. The trustees finally decided that debate was getting the board nowhere, so brought the question to a vote by one member moving that the ordinance creating the improvement be read for the first time.

City Engineer Jordan of Eagle Rock had reported that he had investigated both propositions, that of laying pipe and of an open water way, and he considered the latter to be the more feasible and less expensive when it came to upkeep. He said the water would be discharged on Stanley avenue, and the cost of constructing the open way would be approximately $1500. The alley would be from eight to ten feet in width. His estimate for the pipe line was $3000.

U. S. Agent to Reveal Result of Dope Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The government's war on illicit drugs will take on impetus with the revelations made by Colonel O. G. Forrer, narcotic expert, just returned from Europe with "inside information" on the most important shipment which has been smuggled into the United States, it was learned.

Colonel's Forrer's reports are to be laid before the government narcotic board, for such later action as the state department may take in gaining co-operation of foreign governments to stop "dope" smuggling. Secretary of State Hughes is a member of this board.

President Harding may be asked by the board to call upon certain countries to enter into a co-operative scheme to check the smugglers. The extent to which foreign ship crews engage in the traffic, as a source for narcotic dealers in the United States, is expected to be revealed in Colonel Forrer's report. This government, it was stated, will seek to stop some of the traffic at it source by more careful surveillance of dealers aboard.

LITTLE THEATRE'S AIMS ARE TOLD BY LEADER

High Artistic Ideals Mark Productions Staged by Community Players

The ideals of the Little Theatre, for which Eagle Rock Community Players are laying a foundation, are not the same as those of the professional drama or the amateur production.

"Rightly speaking," states Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer, director of the Eagle Rock players' organization, "we have higher ideals than the professional stage, because we steer clear of the commercial. Entertainment is not our first motif in a production, for we strive, first of all, to educate the minds of the people to the class of productions that fits in with our Little Theatre ideals."

Mrs. Fischer speaks from years of experience in working with the Little Theatre; the institution that has been said by some of the greatest artists of the state today to be a great stride toward the achieving of higher ideals in art in America.

To Stage Comedy

The work of the Community Players is being forwarded by a group of interested residents of Eagle Rock, who have made its success one of their chief interests. Mrs. A. G. Reily, president; Mrs. Ethel Woodhouse, secretary, and Mrs. T. W. White, treasurer, are assisted by a group of very able assistants in the work that is laid out for the board of directors of the community players.

The work is now directed toward the success of the next production, "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," in which Mrs. Fischer takes the title role. This three-act comedy by Harry James Smith will be presented at the Central school auditorium on the evenings of February 14 and 15 at 8:15 Tickets may be secured at the Eagle Rock Music store through the courtesy of J. C. Kraus, the proprietor.

Nebraskans Will Hold Social Rally Friday

The Nebraska state society holds its great mid-winter tourists' reunion and social rally the night of Friday, February 9, in Music-Art hall, 233 South Broadway, Los Angeles.

The entertainment will be preceded by a get-acquainted hour and followed by dancing. All resident Nebraskans are wanted to come and meet their friends and the hundreds of tourists here for the winter.

GRANT ADVENTISTS TEMPORARY PERMIT

Tabernacle to Be Erected on Church Lots for Six Month Period

Members of the Seventh-day Adventist church of Eagle Rock were given a temporary permit to erect a frame tabernacle on their lots on Myrtle avenue by the Eagle Rock Board of Trustees Monday night. C. S. Prout, who has been holding an evangelistic meeting during the summer months and regular meeting at the Masonic hall for some weeks past, made a personal appeal to the city officials for this privilege.

Mr. Prout stated a part of the tabernacle at Hollywood was being moved to Eagle Rock and he had ascertained, after taking out a permit for the structure, that the ordinance covering the erection would not permit of the building being put up without a permanent foundation. He said this was inadvisable, as the church members expected soon to begin the erection of a permanent structure. He stated he would be glad to take out a permit for six months and would agree to remove the temporary building at the end of that time.

Move in 6 Months

After considerable discussion, the board authorized the clerk to issue a permit with the understanding that the building should be removed at the end of the six-month period.

Mr. Prouty stated the Masonic hall lacked considerable of being big enough to hold his congregation, which was growing every week, consequently he and the members of his church were anxious that there should be no delay in getting their own building in shape.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR $50,000 TO BUILD CHURCH

Leaders of Six Teams Will Report Results of Drive Tonight

The big campaign for the erection of a $50,000 church building on the present site of the Congregational church in Eagle Rock was launched Tuesday morning. There are six teams working, three men's teams and three women's. An enthusiastic meeting of the teams and other committees was held at the Eagle Rock Women's clubhouse Monday night, in which plans were outlined and routes arranged for the various members of the teams.

Tuesday night they met at the clubhouse to compare notes and report progress. This was followed by a "big feed" given by the women's teams. Wednesday night they will meet again at the church and the result of the campaign will be announced.

The captains of the teams are Shirley Allen, Jesse Taylor and George D. Hale for the men, and Mrs. Ed Thompson, Mrs. Emma Roach and Mrs. Alice Winters for the women.

The average ocean depth is 12,600 feet.

Social Events

Philathea Party

The members of the Philathea class of the First Methodist church held their regular monthly business meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Louise Fambrough, 206 North Orange street.

Plans were made for a George Washington party to be given Tuesday evening, February 20, for Philathea members only. Further details will be announced later.

Following the business meeting, Miss Keller, who has recently returned from China, gave a very interesting talk on the hospitals and conditions in China. She displayed an interesting array of dolls made by Chinese girls. These dolls showed the different kinds of costumes worn by the various classes. Miss Keller also had a clever assortment of hand-carved articles showing the different means and manner of traveling, and farming implements used by the Chinese. Miss Keller is a sister of Miss Gladys Keller of Glenada avenue.

Later in the evening the hostess served refreshments.

Those present were Mrs. Helen Scripps, class teacher; Miss Lois Percey, Miss Eleanor Perkins, Miss Mabel Gibert, Miss Haines, Miss Leta Dow, Miss Gladys Keller and sister, Miss Keller, Miss Mary Rich, Miss Gladys Flagg, Miss Anderson, Miss Ruth Spafford, Miss Eleanor Rose, the hostess, Miss Louise Fambrough, and her mother, Mrs. T. Fambrough.

At Jensen's Shops

One of the fine new storerooms in the basement floor of Jensen's Palace Grand shops on North Brand boulevard was picked out yesterday afternoon by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery as the place for the rummage sale and auction, to be held Saturday to raise money for the building fund of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Through the courtesy of R. S. Jensen, owner and proprietor of the shops quarters in the new building are to be used by the club for the benefit Saturday morning, afternoon and night.

The rummage sale and cooked food sale will take place during the day and the auction sale will be the big night feature.

Mrs. Montgomery and her committee members report fine response from club members and the receipt of some wonderful things to sell and auction off.

All club members and friends desiring to make donations are asked to leave all articles at the Palace Grand shops between 9 and 5 o'clock Friday, when the chairman of the various booths will take charge of things.

T. Kuranaga of the Japan Art and Tea store is to serve as auctioneer.

Life Membership

A life membership in the California Hut for ex-service men, located in Los Angeles, has been secured by the Women's Auxiliary of the Glendale American Legion post.

The Glendale women have taken an active interest in the establishment and development of the Hut and in addition to the life membership they also serve lunch at the Hut twice a month.

At the Auxiliary meeting Monday night it was announced by Mrs. Margaret Kaeding, president, that the organization had been assigned to care for the boys at the Barlow hospital.

Two new members were initiated at the meeting, Mrs. Loretta Schwitters and Mrs. E. T. Remmen.

The auxiliary is now launching a two weeks' campaign for funds. Mesdames Henry Prussing, H. L. Anderson and E. W. W. Hayward are the captains of the three teams working on the campaign. The team securing the largest amount of money is to be entertained by the other two teams.

Delphians Guests

Mrs. Harry Wilcox of 620 North Maryland avenue announced this morning that she will be hostess at 10 o'clock Friday morning to members of the Alpha chapter of the Glendale Delphian organization. Matters of important business will be discussed.

Program Enjoyed

A fine program was given yesterday afternoon by the women of the R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church, at the home of Mrs. Grover Adams, 516 Pioneer drive.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Ray Bentley. Mrs. J. Roger Bentley, the new president, presided over the business meeting that preceded the program, when committees for the year were appointed.

The program consisted of a duet, "Hearts and Flowers," by Mrs. Ray Bentley and Mrs. Thomas Hosking; a vocal solo, "Love's Coronation," by Mrs. H. W. Harver, accompanied by Mrs. Brenice Wonacott; and a pianologue, "In the Usual Way," by Mrs. C. E. Madison, of Long Beach, who also gave several readings.

At the close of the program little Misses Bobbie Morrow and June Perkins, dressed in valentine costumes, entered pulling a gaily-decorated wagon on which was a large, heart-shaped valentine box. Extending from this tached hearts, which, when tached hearts, which, when pulled, showed the box to contain apples and popcorn balls for everyone.

Thirty-seven members of the club were present. Mrs. F. E. Bacon and Mrs. C. E. Madison of Long Beach were guests. The hostesses were Mrs. Fred Marple, Mrs. C. S. Jewsberry, Mrs. Robert Morrow and Mrs. Perkins.

Non-Section Unit

An organization of non-section members of the Tuesday Afternoon club is the ambition of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of the ways and means committee, who is always working on plans for further augmenting the building fund for building and furnishing the new club home.

A large number of the club women are members of some one of the sections. However, there is a vast group who are not included in the sectional activities.

Each section has been pledged to raise funds for some part of the house furnishings and so Mrs. Montgomery is anxious to organize the non-section members.

To this end she has called a meeting of all the non-section women next Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock preceding the regular club meeting in the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Montgomery states that she has a big plan to submit to the club women and she is anxious that they respond 100 per cent strong.

Oriental Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ullrich of 315 North Isabel street were hosts last night at an Oriental dinner in the historical corner cafe in Los Angeles Chinatown, entertaining as their guests in honor of their son Irvin.

The party motored over to Los Angeles at 10:30 o'clock and enjoyed a menu of Chinese delicacies prepared and served by Orientals in a truly Oriental setting. Music furnished the entertainment during the dinner.

Guests were Irvin Ullrich, Willis Rowe, J. Daniel and Walter Robinson.

Organize New Club

Mrs. Robert Carpenter of 508 West Burchett street was hostess Saturday afternoon to the members of a newly-organized Five Hundred club. High score was made by Miss Ethel Land and low score by Miss Alice McCoy. Dainty refreshments were served. Members of the club are Miss Dorothy Algy, Miss Muriel Wilson, Miss Ethel Land, Miss Alice McCoy, Miss Louise Fambrough, Mrs. Hugh Hatton, Mrs. Williams, and the hostess. They will be entertained once each month.

Committee of Three

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, Mrs. C. H. Kirkman and Mrs. G. U. Moyse are members of the committee working out tentative plans for a new clubhouse for the Glendale Professional and Business Women's club. The clubhouse project was presented at the club council meeting a week ago, but the committee did not report at the council meeting last night because they desire more time in which to more thoroughly investigate every phase of the project.

At the council meeting last night it was decided that a birthday meeting will be held next Tuesday night. Supper will be served and there will be a birthday cake for all club members having birthdays in February. The new members received in February will be guests of honor and the January members will be hostesses.

W. C. T. U. Program

The afternoon session of the W. C. T. U. regional conference to be held Friday in the Central Christian church is of particular interest locally because representatives of Glendale religious, civic and club organizations are to speak.

A symposium on citizenship is to be the afternoon feature presided over by Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, who will be honored guest and speaker at the conference.

The symposium program at 3 o'clock will include addresses by Rev. Louis Tinning on "Potential Citizenship," Rev. C. A. Cole on "Christian Citizenship," Mrs. G. U. Moyse on "Future Citizens," Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson on "Women Citizens," T. D. Watson on "Patriotic Citizens," Mrs. Hattie C. Young on "Boomerangs."

Mrs. Young, who appears on the program, is from Los Angeles, and is state secretary of the W. C. T. U.

At Grayson Home

An entertainingly educational talk by Mrs. Alma J. Danford, librarian of the city library, on "The Importance of Non-Fiction" was enjoyed yesterday by members of the Maids' and Young Matrons' Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club meeting with Mrs. Walter Grayson of 364 West Lexington drive.

Mrs. Danford has a delightfully informal way of talking with her listeners and her presentation of her subject yesterday was greatly enjoyed by the young women present.

Members of the section have decided to hold a food sale Saturday, March 3, to raise money for the amount they have pledged on the necessary fund for buying the flat silver for the club's new home.

Harding Pleads For Speedy Action By Congress In Settlement Of Debt Offer

HARD BARGAIN NOT DRIVEN ON BRITISH GOVERNMENT, IS CLAIM

Failure Would Have Spread Political and Economic Gloom, Says Executive

ernment, said Mr. Harding; and none was intended.

"In stressing the desirability for prompt ratification, the president reminded his hearers that untold calamity might have followed, and might still follow the failure of this agreement—the first that the United States has concluded with its score of debtors.

"The failure of the British undertaking would have spread political and ecoromic discouragement throughout the world," he declared, "and general repudiation would likely have followed in its wake."

"But here is kept faith," the president continued earnestly, "willingly kept, let it be recorded, and a covenant of peace no more effective than it would be if joint British and American opposition to war were expressly agreed upon.

"It is a covenant of peace and recuperation, of respect and co-operation. It is a new element of financial and economic stabilization, when the world is sadly needing a reminder of the ways of peace."

Surely, the president said, if the British government could sanction the agreement made in two short sessions of its cabinet, then the American congress could not be less prompt in approving it.

President's Message

President Harding in his message to congress today, spoke as follows:

"To the Congress—You have been asked to assemble in joint session in order that I may submit to you the report of the world war foreign debt commission, covering its accepted proposal for the funding of the debt due to the United States from the government of Great Britain. This report concluded on February 3, 1923, reads as follows:

" 'The president:

" 'The world war foreign debt commission, created under the act of congress approved February 9, 1922, having received the mission appointed by the British government to consider the funding of the demand obligations of that government held by the United States, report as follows:

Tells of Meetings

" 'The British government designated as its representatives the Right Honorable Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, and Mr. Montagu Norman, the governor of the Bank of England, who have conferred with the commission in Washington and presented facts relating to the position of the British government. The commission has also met frequently in separate session and has given the fullest consideration to the problems involved in the funding of the British debt to the United States.

" 'It became manifest at the outset that it would not be possible to effect an agreement for funding within the limits of the act approved February 9, 1922, and the commission, has therefore, considered the practicability of a settlement on some other basis, and though it has not been able, in the absence of authority under the law, to conclude negotiations, it unanimously recommends for submission to congress a settlement with the British government as follows:

" 'Principal of notes to be refunded, $4,074,818,358.44.

" 'Interest accrued and unpaid up to December 15, 1922, at the rate of 4 1-4 per cent, $629,836,106.99.

" 'Total $4,704,654,465.43.

" 'Deduct payments made October 16, 1922, and November 15, cent to December 15, 1922, $100,526,379.69.

" 'To be paid in cash, $4,128,085.74.

" 'Total principal of indebtedness as of December 15, 1922, for which British government bonds are to be issued to the United States government at par, $4,600,000,000.

Methods of Payment

" 'The principal of the bonds shall be paid in annual installments on a fixed schedule, subject to the right of the British government to make these payments in three year periods. The amount of the first year's installment will be $23,000,000 and these annual installments will increase with due regularity during the life of the bonds until, in the sixty-second year, the amount of the installment will be $175,000,000, the aggregate installments being equal to the total principal of the debt.

" 'The British government shall have the right to pay off additional amounts of the principal of the bonds on any interest date upon 90 days previous notice.

" 'Interest is to be payable upon the unpaid balances at the following rates, on December 15, and June 15 of each year; 3 per cent semi-annually, June 15, 1923, to December 15, 1932, inclusive, 3½ per cent semi-annually June 15, 1933, until final payment.

" 'For the first five years, one-half of the interest may be deferred and added to the principal, bonds to be issued therefor similar to those of the original issue.

" 'Any payment of interest or principal may be made in any United States government bonds issued since April 6, 1917, such bonds to be taken at par and accrued interest.

" 'The commission believes that a settlement of the British debt to the United States on this basis is fair and just to both governments, and that its prompt adoption will make a most important contribution to international stability. The extension of payment both of the principal and interest over a long period will make for stability in exchange and promotion of commerce between the two countries. The payment of principal has been established on a basis of positive installments of increasing volume, firmly establishing the principle of repayment of the entire capital sum. The payment of interest has been established at the approximately normal rates payable by strong governments over long terms of years.

" 'It has not been the thought of the commission that it would be just to demand over a long period the high rate of interest naturally maintained during the war and reconstruction, and that such an attempt would defeat our efforts at settlement. Beyond this the commission has felt that the present difficulties of unemployment and high taxation in the United Kingdom should be met with suitable consideration during the early years, and, therefore, the commission considers it equitable, and desiring that payments during the next few years should be made on such basis and with such flexibility as will encourage economic recuperation not only in the countries immediately concerned, but throughout the world.

Business Settlement

" 'This settlement between the British government and the United States has the utmost significance. It is a business settlement fully preserving the integrity of the obligations, and it represents the first great step in the readjustment of the inter-governmental obligations growing out of the war.

" 'Respectfully submitted,

" 'A. W. Mellon, Chairman,

" Charles E. Hughes,

" 'Herbert Hoover,

" 'Reed Smoot,

" 'Theodore E. Burton.'

"In its comment upon the arrangements negotiated, the commission itself has said essentially everything necessary to commend the agreement to your sanction. Note that the commission urges that the settlement is on a basis which is 'fair and just to both governments,' and 'will make a most important contribution to international stability.' More important still is the closing observation that 'It is a business settlement, fully preserving the integrity of the obligations, and it represents the first great step in the readjustment of the intergovernmental obligations growing out of the war.' In these observations I most heartily approve.

"The call of the world today is for integrity of agreements, the sanctity of covenants, the validity of contracts. Here is the first clearing of the war-clouded skies in a debt-burdened world and the sincere commitment of one great nation to validate its financial pledges and discharge its obligations in the highest sense of financial honor.

"There is no purpose to report that your commission has driven a hard bargain with Great Britain or to do a less seemly thing in proclaiming a rare generosity in settlement. Amid widespread clamor for the cancellation of world war debts, as a fancied but fallacious contribution toward peace—a clamor not limited to the lands of debtor nations but insistent among many of our own people—the British commission came to make acknowledgment of the debt, to put fresh stamp of approval upon its validity and agree upon terms for its repayment.

Willing to Pay

"It was manifest from the beginning that Great Britain could not undertake any program of payment which would conform to the limitations of time and interest rates which the commission had been authorized to grant. But here was a great nation acknowledging its obligations and seeking terms in which it might repay. So your commission proceeded to negotiate in a business way for a fair and just settlement. Such a settlement had to take into consideration the approximately normal interests payable as the commission suggests, 'by strong governments over a long term of years,' with a temporary interest rate and suitable options adjusted to the tremendous problems of readjustment and recuperation. Your commission went so far as it believed the American sense of fair play would justify. Even then the British debt commission did not feel justified by its instructions to accept the proposal. Only after submission to the British cabinet was the proposal of your commission accepted and I bring it to you, with the earnest recommendation that it be given so far as legislative procedure will admit, a cordial and prompt approval.

"A transaction of such vast importance naturally has attracted widespread attention and much of commendation. It is a very gratifying thing to note the press and public have uttered substantially unanimous approval. It means more than the mere funding and the ultimate discharge of the largest international loan ever contracted. It is a recommitment of the English speaking world to the validity of contract; it is in effect a plight against war and war expenditures and a rigid adherence to that production and retrenchment which enhances stability precisely as it discharges obligations.

Spread Discouragement

"It cannot be unseemly to say it, and it is too important to be omitted, the failure of the British undertaking would have spread political and economic discouragement throughout the world and general repudiation would have likely followed in its wake. But here is kept faith—willingly kept, let it be recorded—and a covenant of peace no less effective than it would be if joint British and American opposition to war were expressly agreed upon. It is a covenant of peace and recuperation, of respect and co-operation. It is a new element of financial and economic stabilization, when the world is sadly needing a reminder of the ways of peace. It is an example of encouragement and inspiration, when the world is staggering in discouragement and bowed with the sorrows of wars that were and fears of wars which humanity is praying may be avoided.

"Ordinarily I had been reluctant to add this question to the congressional program which is already crowded, in view of the short period remaining of your session. But it is of such outstanding importance to us that I should be backward if I did not invite your sanction even amid crowded calendars and pending problems of great importance. And I hope you will be glad to approve. If the debtor nation could decide to assume the great obligation, in two cabinet sessions, in the face of enormous financial and economic difficulties, surely the deciding authority of the creditor nation will be ready to approve in a spirit appropriate to the great transaction and with a promptness which will be befitting.

"I am not unmindful of the disposition to pledge the anticipated payments in giving sanction to the settlement. The repeal of that commitment is always within the authority of the congress if such a repeal is deemed wise, but it will best comport with the importance of such an international transaction to give a frank, exclusive and direct decision, uninvolved by any disposition of the monies which the funding program ultimately will bring to the federal treasury.

"Nor am I unmindful of the importance of the pending legislation with which any prolonged consideration of the debt settlement might come in conflict.

Time For Debate

"Knowing there is abundant time for ample debate I would be recreant to my belief in the urgency of a decision on the merchant marine bill if I did not renew the request that it be brought to a final disposition. I venture the allusion because it has been threatened that the merchant marine act shall not be allowed to come to a vote. Today you have a debt settlement which is to bring the treasury something more than a hundred and fifty millions a year, and we rightly appraise it a notable accomplishment. On the other hand the executive branch of the government is charged with the operation of government-owned shipping, which is losing the federal treasury $50,000,000 a year. It is important to avoid losses as it is to secure funds on debts and from taxation sources.

"I have detailed the discouraging situation with our shipping to congress and have suggested what is believed to be a remedy, not only to put an end to the losses, but to upbuild an American merchant marine to meet our cherished aspirations and further our commerce aboard. In inviting your support I frankly urge that if congress would not approve, that it should submit some alternative program. I am unwilling, the public is unwilling, to continue these appalling losses to the public treasury when we know we are operating with no prospect of relief or of ultimate achievement. Congress owes to itself, to the executive branch of the government and to the American public some decisive action. Mere avoidance by prolonged debate is a mark of impotence on a vitally important public question. I plead for decision. If there is a favorable majority, the bill should be enacted. If a majority is opposed, defeat will be decisive. Then, if congress fails in providing the requested alternative measure, the executive branch of the government may proceed as best it can to end the losses in liquidation and humiliation.

Demands Frankness

"I speak frankly because the situation demands frankness. I am trying to emphasize a responsibility which cannot be met by one branch of the government alone. I am not seeking now to influence the senate's decision, but I am appealing for some decision.

"There is time, abundant time, for decisive action on both these tremendously important questions. I have brought up the shipping bill because I can foresee the possible conbict for right of way, but it ought and can be avoided. There is time for essential debate of both and each carries its own appeal. Either is fit to be recorded a chapter in great achievement, both will mark a signal triumph. Both are inseparably related to our good fortunes at home and our place in the world."

Mrs. Peggy Garretson Takes Part In Shrine Club's Play To Be Given Thursday Night

THE part of Mitzi, the French maid, in "Smile Again," the play that is to be given by the Shrine Club at the T. D. & L. theatre on the night of Thursday, February 8, has been entrusted to Mrs. Peggy Garretson, one of the best known musical and dramatic artists in Glendale, and the rehearsals have already shown that Mrs. Garretson has grasped the vital points of the somewhat difficult role in a manner that augurs well for its perfect presentation on the night of the performance. The part calls for the rendition of several musical numbers, as well as for the presentation of the light comedy that attaches to the role of Mitzi, and Mrs. Garretson is admirably fitted, by reason of her past experience, for the position that the directors of the cast have chosen for her.

MRS. PEGGY GARRETSON
Of Glendale Who Has Part in "Smile Again," the Shrine Club Play

Mrs. Garretson was at one time contralto soloist in St. Mark's Episcopal church here, and before coming to Glendale she was prominent in dramatic and musical circles in Des Moines, Iowa. She is a talented scenario writer, with a keen grasp on the dramatic possibilities of any situation, and in addition to her dramatic work she is also a poetess who is gifted with a deep insight and an artistic touch that lifts her work in this line far above the ordinary. Mrs. Garretson is now putting the finishing touches to a volume of her poems that will be published shortly and which has already been assured a warm welcome from the poetry lovers of the southland.

Humor Is Feature

Wit and sparkle marked yesterday afternoon's meeting of the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, with Mrs. Frankie A. Webb, 303 North Louise street, the program, in charge of Mrs. W. H. Verity, being devoted to "American Humor."

After the roll call, to which each member responded with an anecdote in reply to "The Story That Made Me Smile," the following numbers were given:

A review of magazines by Mrs. Edgar Leavitt; a short story by Mark Twain, read by Mrs. G. H. Rowe; a short story by Bill Nye, read by Mrs. B. W. Sloan; a short story by Irvin Cobb, read by Mrs. T. G. McDougall; a short story by George Ade, read by Mrs. H. F. Garlinghouse; a short story by O. Henry, read by Mrs. E. S. McKee; a short story by Ring Lardner, read by Mrs. Frank Ayars.

The final entertainment feature was a group of humorous stories by Harry James, monologist.

It was announced at the business meeting that last Thursday's concert at the home of Mrs. E. D. Cleophas had cleared $114, which sum, will go into the fund being raised to furnish the new clubhouse. In this connection a food sale is announced for Saturday, at Jensen's Palace Grand, as part of the Tuesday Afternoon club's rummage sale and auction.

a general lounging room forty feet by sixty feet, the feature being a central mammoth double fireplace. Two entrances are provided into this large room.

Of slightly larger dimensions is the dining room, forty feet by seventy feet, separated from the lounging room by glass folding doors. There will be a seating and table capacity for 200 persons in the dining room.

Adjoining the dining room is a large kitchen, modernly equipped and practically arranged for the handling, preparing and serving large and small parties.

Plan Grill Room

It is said that 100 persons will be accommodated in the men's grill room, located behind the kitchen. The grill room is to be equipped with a counter on which short orders may be served.

There are two rooms opening off from the grill, a billiard room, large enough for two tables for billiard and pool; and the men's shower and locker accommodations.

Administrative affairs of the club will be carried on in the main offices located to the right of the west entrance. Offices of the steward will be to the left of this entrance.

Golf Course

The plan for the eighteen-hole golf course has been finished by Max Behr and golf course connoisseurs are sharing in his declaration that the 109 acres owned by the club will offer one of the finest golf locations in southern California.

Whether a beginner or a finished golfer, the sportsman will find pleasure in driving across the stretch of 6,445 yards provided on the new course.

Eddie hesitated. He knew that Grayson would be angry if he let the boss's daughter into that back room alone with an outlaw and a robber, and the boss himself would probably be inclined to have Eddie drawn and quartered; but it was hard to refuse Miss Barbara anything.

"Where is he?" she asked.

Eddie jerked a thumb in the direction of the door. The key still was in the lock.

"Go to the window and look at the moon, Eddie," suggested the girl. "It's perfectly gorgeous tonight. Please, Eddie," as he still hesitated.

Eddie shook his head and moved slowly toward the window.

"There can't nobody refuse you nothin', miss," he said; "'specially when you got your heart set on it."

"That's a dear, Eddie," purred the girl, and moved swiftly across the room to the locked door.

As she turned the key in the lock she felt a little shiver of nervous excitement run through her. "What sort of man would he be—this hardened outlaw and robber—this renegade American who had cast his lot with the avowed enemies of his own people?" she wondered.

Only her desire to learn of Bridge's fate urged her to attempt so distasteful an interview; but she dared not ask another to put the question for her, since should her complicity in Bridge's escape—provided of course that he had escaped—become known to Villa the fate of the Americans at El Orobo would be definitely sealed.

She turned the knob and pushed the door open, slowly. A man was sitting in a chair in the center of the room. His back was toward her. He was a big man. His broad shoulders loomed immense above the back of the rude chair. A shock of black hair, rumpled and tousled, covered a well-shaped head.

At the sound of the door creaking upon its hinges he turned his face in her direction, and as his eyes met hers all four went wide in surprise and incredulity.

Billy!" she cried.

"Barbara!—you?" and Billy rose to his feet, his bound hands struggling to be free.

The girl closed the door behind her and crossed to him.

"You robbed the bank, Billy?" she asked. "It was you, after the promises you made me to live straight always—for my sake?" Her voice trembled with emotion. The man could see that she suffered, and yet he felt his own anguish, too.

"But you are married," he said. "I saw it in the papers. What do you care, now, Barbara? I'm nothing to you."

"I'm not married," she cried. "I couldn't marry Mr. Mallory. I tried to make myself believe that I could; but at last I knew that I did not love him and never could, and I wouldn't marry a man I didn't love.

"I never dreamed that it was you here, Billy," she went on. "I came to ask you about Mr. Bridge. I wanted to know if he escaped, or if—if—oh, this awful country! They think no more of human life here than a butcher thinks of the life of the animal he dresses."

A sudden light illumined Billy's mind. Why had it not occurred to him before? This was Bridge's Penelope! The woman he loved was loved by his best friend. And she had sent a messenger to him, to save Billy, to save her lover. She had come here to the office tonight to question a stranger—a man she thought an outlaw and a robber—because she could not rest without word from the man she loved. Billy stiffened. He was hurt to the bottom of his heart; but he did not blame Bridge—it was fate. Nor did he blame Barbara because she loved Bridge. Bridge was more her kind, anyway. He was a college guy. Billy was only a mucker.

"Bridge got away all right," he said. And say, he didn't have nothin' to do with pullin' off that safe crackin'. I done it myself. He didn't know I was in town an' I didn't know he was there. He's the squarest guy in the world, Bridge is. He follered me that night an' took a shot at me, thinkin' I was the robber all right but not knowin' I was me. He got my horse, an' when he found it was me, he made me take your pony an' make my get-away, fer he knew Villa's men would croak me sure if they caught me. You can't blame him fer that, can you? Him an' I were good pals—he couldn't do nothin' else. It was him that made me bring your pony back to you. It's in the corral now, I reckon. I was a-bringin' it back when they got me. Now you better go. This ain't no place fer you, an' I ain't had no sleep fer so long I'm most dead." His tones were cool. He appeared bored by her company; though as a matter of fact his heart was breaking with love for her—love that he believed unrequited—and he yearned to tear loose his bonds and crush her in his arms.

It was Barbara's turn now to be hurt. She drew herself up.

"I am sorry that I have disturbed your rest," she said, and walked away, her head in air; but all the way back to the ranch-house she kept repeating over and over to herself: "Tomorrow they will shoot him! Tomorrow they will shoot him! Tomorrow they will shoot him!"

CHAPTER XIV
'Twixt Love and Duty

For an hour Barbara Harding paced the veranda of the ranch-house, pride and love battling for the ascendency within her breast. She could not let him die, that she knew; but how might she save him?

The strains of music and the laughter from the bunkhouse had ceased. The ranch slept. Over the brow of the low bluff upon the opposite side of the river a little party of silent horsemen filed downward to the ford. At the bluff's foot a barbed-wire fence marked the eastern boundary of the ranch's enclosed fields. The foremost horseman dismounted and cut the strands of wire, carrying them to one side from the path of the feet of the horses which now passed through the opening he had made.

Down into the river they rode following the ford even in the darkness with an assurance which indicated long familiarity. Then through a fringe of willows out across a meadow toward the ranch buildings the riders made their way. The manner of their approach, their utter silence, the hour, all contributed toward the sinister.

Opposes Increase in Pork Barrel Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Strong opposition to the action of the house in increasing the rivers and harbors appropriation in the army supply bill by $29,000,000 was voiced in the senate by Senator Wadsworth of New York, chairman of the senate military affairs committee.

Wadsworth said he argued in committee for retention of the $27,000,000 estimate by the budget bureau but was voted down, the house approving an appropriation at $56,000,000.

DUBLIN, Feb. 7.—If you are tempted to travel in Ireland take heed from the voice of experience and don't. Nowadays in Erin's green isle nobody goes anywhere except under necessity. The traveler never knows when he will be stranded miles from nowhere without food or shelter.

Twelve months ago automobile owners gave up the idea of using their cars anywhere a few miles outside Dublin. In the first place, most of the roads were trenched, barricaded and made impassable through the activities of the republicans. Secondly, there was the ever-present danger of the car being halted and seized by the rebels and the occupant compelled to foot it home. As a general rule the raiders who seized the cars did not even pause to say, "Thank you."

Railroad travel, however, has become the most risky of all. I recently made a journey to Cork, which in normal times can be made in three and one-half hours; it took us ten. Leaving Dublin at 8 o'clock in the morning in a train that was overcrowded and cold, we did not reach Cork until 6 o'clock that evening.

Before the republican rebellion six passenger trains ran daily between Dublin and Cork. Now only two make the journey, and they, as far as practicable, travel only in the day time.

On the journey that I took the going was fairly good until we were about twenty miles outside Dublin. Then there was a delay. The republicans had raised a few rails the preceding night, and the rails had been only temporarily replaced. From then on, for the next forty miles or more, our pace was reminiscent of the speed of old coaching days. The destruction to be seen on every side was so great that it will take years to make repairs.

Free State outposts guarded the iron road at every half mile. Sentries paced the way, ever on the lookout for republican marauders.

At Thurles we were met by two armored train, one of which ran in front of us and the other behind. These armored trains escorted us to Mallow Junction, their machine guns from time to time rattling forth volleys, as some republican sniper out in the fields took a pot shot at the trains.

These episodes usually would be followed by a halt while the Free State soldiers searched in vain for the sniper. Women shivered, children cried, and men said: "Never again!" It was more than miserable waiting there in the bleak, cold train, with nothing but swamps and water all about.

At Mallow we found the station premises destroyed. Progress on our train no longer was possible. The ten-span bridge just outside the town, which was built at a cost of $5,000,000, was a complete ruin. Through burned timbers and pools of brackish water the passengers trudged their way to waiting automobiles, which conveyed them to a temporary station which had been erected a few miles further on.

Free State troops were very much in evidence. Sandbag dugouts, with machine guns peeping through loopholes, were the evidences of welcome we got on our final stage to Cork. The train consisted of two coaches, and the 200 passengers were all huddled up together.

"Keep as low as you can going between Mourne Abbey and Rathduff, or 'the One-Eyed' may get you!" was the warning given by trainmen. I did not understand the full meaning of the warning at the time, but did so later.

"The One-Eyed" was an ex-British soldier, named Heal, who, for some months, had been indulging in a little rebellion of his own. His "game' was to mount a tree a mile or so off and blaze away with a machine gun at the passing train. He had had some narrow escapes from capture, and we later learned that two days before we passed he had been gathered in by the Free Staters.

On the twenty-mile run between Mallow and Cork extraordinary precautions had been taken for safeguarding the one remaining line over which it is possible to travel.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JOLLIE'S COUSIN

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping along over the snow not far from his hollow stump bungalow, the rabbit gentleman felt one of his paws slip into what seemed to be a hole beneath the icy crust of snow.

"Dear me!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "I hope I'm not going to sink down into the den of the Fox or Wolf!"

However, his paw did not go down very far—just breaking a hole through the snow and then stopping when hard ground was reached. Uncle Wiggily looked into the hole his paw had made, not expecting to see anything. But he was greatly surprised when he noticed what seemed to be a little ball of brown fuzzy fur.

"Oh, ho!" said Uncle Wiggily to himself, twinkling his pink nose. "I guess this ball of fur must be a tassel off the fur cap of Susie Littletail. I'll take it to my bungalow and give it to Susie the next time I see her."

Uncle Wiggily picked up the little round ball of brown, fuzzy fur and put it in his pocket. Then, thinking no more about it, he hopped on, looking for an adventure.

"I hope I have a real exciting one," said Uncle Wiggily.

But the only thing that happened was that the bunny gentleman saw Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady, trying to walk along a slippery place.

"Wait, I'll help you," kindly offered the bunny. Well, he tried to help Mrs. Twistytail but he slipped and she slipped and they both slipped together and Mrs. Twistytail fell down and sat on Uncle Wiggily's leg, giving him a pain.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" squealed the pig lady. "I guess it's so slippery I'd better go back home." And she did. But she did not try to walk, but sat down on the ice and Uncle Wiggily pushed her along as if she were a sled.

"Well, that was a pretty good adventure, I guess that's enough for today, so I'll go home," thought the bunny, and home he hopped limping a little where the pig lady had sat on his leg.

Uncle Wiggily hung his coat in a warm room and sat down to read the paper until it should be time for supper, and as he sat there all of a sudden there came a knock on the door and in came Jollie Longtail, the mousie boy.

"Hello, Jollie, what do you want?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Mother sent me over to borrow a cup of sugar," answered the mouse boy.

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily, "sit down here where it's warm, Jollie, and Nurse Jane will get the sugar for you. And, before I forget it, here's a fur tassel I found under the snow a while ago. I think it belongs to Susie Littletail. Will you please take it to her?" and Uncle Wiggily took out the round ball of brown fur. He laid it on the table near the fire, and he and Jollie were talking about how long it would be until warm weather when all of a sudden, there sounded a little squeaking noise.

"What's that?" asked Jollie. "Is that your rheumatism squeaking, Uncle Wiggily?"

"No," answered the bunny. "It seemed to come from that round ball of fur I picked up." And then, as truly as I'm telling you, that round ball of fur uncurled and it turned into a dear, cute little mouse with a long tail.

"Oh my! Who are you?" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"I am the Jumping Mouse," was the answer. "I am a cousin to Jollie, though he may not know it. We jumping mice sleep all winter, and I was curled up into a warm ball and asleep when you found me. But when you brought me into this warm room I awakened. Now I am quite lively!" The jumping mouse leaped from the table all the way across the room. For, though a jumping mouse is but three inches long, it can jump ten feet like a kangaroo.

"Oh, what a good jumper you are!" said Uncle Wiggily. And just then the door opened and in popped the Bob Cat.

"So am I a good jumper and I'm a good ear nibbler, too!"

The jumping mouse landed ker-bunk-o!

howled the Bob Cat. But all of a sudden Jollie's cousin, the jumping mouse, leaped back across the room and landed ker-bunk-o on the nose of the Bob Cat.

"Oh, wow! What a whack!" howled the Bob Cat, and out of the bungalow he ran.

"Thank you, jumping mouse," laughed Uncle Wiggily. Then Nurse Jane gave Jollie the sugar and the mouse boy took his cousin home to stay in the warm nest until spring, and then Jollie and his cousin played leap frog.

"Well, that's two advenures I had," said the bunny rabbit as he went to bed that night. And if the gas stove doesn't take a piece of the lace curtain to use as a coffee strainer, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Whistler.

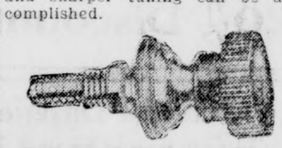
APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

VERNIER ADJUSTER

The Vernier Adjuster illustrated can be attached to any panel by drilling a 1-16 inch hole through which the bushing can be inserted and clamped by means of a nut. The spring serves to keep the adjuster pressure constant. By the use of such a device closer and sharper tuning can be accomplished.



RADIO DEVELOPMENT

HIGH FREQUENCY ALTERNATORS

The scope of these articles, primarily intended for the use of readers unacquainted with or with slight knowledge of the radio art, will not permit of the lengthy discussion of the above method of transmission, which is almost exclusively confined to high power, long range commercial work, and the average person will seldom come in actual contact with this type of apparatus. However, in conjunction with the other contents of these series, a brief outline of this, the latest form of high-power radio telegraphy, may prove of interest.

For the production of continuous oscillations an alternating current alternator of very high frequency may be used. Alexanderson and Goldschmidt both developed alternators which generate alternating currents of radio frequency. This type of alternator is connected directly or inductively to the antenna and ground, and constitutes the simplest possible connection for producing continuous waves. However, to obtain a wave length of say 1500 meters, the frequency of the alternating current must be as high as 2,000,000 cycles per second. The generator speed required to produce this frequency is so high that a special type of construction is necessary for such a machine. It is necessary to secure apparatus for keeping the speed of the machine constant, so that the wave length will not change. This system is impossible for very short waves and therefore arc and vacuum tube apparatus is utilized for the shorter wave lengths and for the less powerful stations.

Goldschmidt employed a radio frequency alternator with a "frequency changer." An initial A. C. of about 10,000, which by means of what is known as a "reflection" process, is changed to 40,000 cycles, giving a wave length of 7500 meters.

The Alexanderson machine is one of great speed and many field poles, and frequencies as high as 200,000 cycles are obtained. This radio frequency, which is impressed on the antenna circuit, is actually taken from the terminals of the machine.

Undoubtedly for long distance work employing very long wave lengths, these high frequency alternators will be used to a very large extent, in fact, the large radio corporations, competing with the submarine cables, are using them today with most successful results.

Refuses Mrs. Stillman Increase in Alimony

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser has declined to increase the amount of alimony allowed by him to Mrs. Anne U. Stillman in the divorce suit brought against her by her banker-husband, James A. Stillman.

Mrs. Stillman has been allowed $7,500 a month, or $90,000 a year, and $35,000 counsel fee and $12,500 expenses. She asked for $123,360 annually for the care and maintenance of herself and three children.

Pandemonium in Air to Follow Court Ruling

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Government authority over radio operators is "absolutely nullified" by the decision of the district court of appeals directing Secretary of Commerce Hoover to issue a radio license to the Inter-City Radio company of New York, it was declared at the commerce department.

The decision will serve to increase "pandemonium in the air," Hoover said, adding that under the ruling the government now is compelled to grant a radio license to every applicant, regardless of whether it will cause interference with government stations.

The decision, Hoover declared, emphasized the urgent necessity for passage by congress of radio legislation.

THE WELL-KNOWN MEDICINES OF THE FAMOUS RECEIPT BOOK AUTHOR

PILES!

There is no suffering like the torture from piles. This continual suffering reacts upon the nervous system and may eventually cause a complete physical breakdown. It is not necessary to endure the torture from piles when quick, sure relief is right at hand. Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment relieves piles at once—and not only that, when this treatment is persisted in, it affords lasting benefit. Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is nationally famous as a remedy for piles, eczema, ring worm, sore feet, hives, insect bites, pimples, blackheads, chafing, chapped hands, chilblains, frost bite and all skin irritations. Read what Arthur Fleury of 63 Ruth St., New Bedford, Mass. says:

"I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment for Piles and got relief from it. That is about fifteen years ago and I always use Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment when another attack of Piles is coming on me. There is no better Medicine for Piles that I know of that will give you better relief."

You can buy Dr. Chase's Ointment at all drug stores. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D. are on each box—your protection against imitations.

Put An End To Neuritis

Neuritis is an inflammation of the nerves, brought on by colds, injuries, bruises, malaria or infectious diseases. As a rule it settles in the shoulder, neck, forearm, thigh, leg or small of the back, causing merciless, stabbing pains that are often mistaken for rheumatism, sciatica or neuralgia.

Regardless of what caused your neuritis or where the pains are located, it is possible to obtain quick relief without taking narcotics or other dangerous drugs. An application of Tysmol over the part that hurts usually stops the misery. Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin and has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves.

Don't endure this agony another day. Get a supply of Tysmol from Roberts & Echols. Price $1 everywhere. Tysmol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 400 Sutter St., San Francisco.—Advertisement.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL SIMILE

"As some tall cliff that lifts its awful form
Swells from the vale and midway leaves the storm,
Though round its breast the rolling clouds are spread
Eternal sunshine settles on its head." —Goldsmith.

When I was a little girl of 12 and we were studying Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" at school, my teacher told me that that comparison of the village pastor to a mountain was the most beautiful simile in the English language.

Teacher had said it. That settled it. I was so impressed that I learned the quotation and for some years, when I wished to be impressive, I repeated it to some one with the interesting information that it was the most beautiful simile in the English language.

With a Smile

A few days ago it came into my mind as I was looking at a mountain around whose breast the rolling clouds were spread. I recalled the poetry with a deep sense of its unalterable beauty. And I recalled teacher's dictum with a smile.

How typical of the way we are always trying to standardize taste and to say what is best and most beautiful—and getting ready to quarrel with people who don't agree with us.

As if there could be any simile however beautiful that had a right to be labeled the most beautiful.

And if the individual's feelings didn't enter into matters of taste.

As if any one could tell any one else what was the most beautiful simile or the most beautiful symphony or the most beautiful painting in the world.

Of course it is true that there are certain forms and standards of pure beauty.

"The Best Taste"

And of course our tastes change as we change ourselves, and what we thought most beautiful as a child we cease to think so as we grow older.

For that reason those who have had wide experience, who have studied forms of beauty, who have heard much music or read many books, doubtless have the "best taste," in the sense to which people are apt to come as they also study and experience many kinds of beauty.

But to try to convince any one that a thing is beautiful or ugly because you think it so, is surely a most futile waste of time. You have reached a certain point on the highway of life. Why complain because others are at different points?

Minds Differ, Too

This would be as tiresome a world if every one thought alike as it would be if every one looked alike.

"Say what you will of taste," says Pope, "you will find two of a face as soon as two of a mind."

Don't blame the highbrow because he likes Shakespeare or the lowbrow because he thinks Harold Bell Wright the greatest novelist who ever lived. The fact that your taste lies somewhere between does not make you the keeper of their tastes.

And when you want to announce any fact that is partly a matter of taste, isn't it quite as well to preface it with an "I think?"

READY TO GREET ALLEGED SLAYER

Police Prepare 'Welcome' to 'Little Phil' Alguin on Arrival From Mexico

GALVESTON, Texas, Feb. 7.—Special police will go on a chartered ocean-going launch twenty miles from shore today to greet Philip Alguin, returning to the United States on the steamship Freeport Number 6, after being deported from Mexico as an undesirable alien. "Little Phil," alias Holquin, alias "Arizona Phil," alleged all-around border bad man, is wanted in Los Angeles for the alleged slaying of Detective Sergeant J. J. Fitzgerald. Special Agent Manning, representing L. D. Oaks, Los Angeles chief of police, will be standing at his elbow when the launch pulls up alongside the Freeport No. 6 to make sure "Little Phil" does not get in the first "greeting"—with his two .45's.

Ready To 'Welcome'

Los Angeles dispatches to Chief of Police J. O. Stevenson here said Alguin had been deported from Mexico and was aboard the Freeport Number 6, sailing from Tampico at 1:05 Tuesday afternoon, to arrive at Freeport, Texas, Wednesday night.

Chief Oaks of Los Angeles left Los Angeles at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Chief Stevenson said. On the launch that will meet Alguin will be Chief Stevenson, who is prepared to file a fugitive from justice complaint, if necessary to hold Alguin until Chief Oaks of Los Angeles arrives to place murder charges against him.

Tellegen Refuses to Contest Diva's Suit

DENVER, Feb. 7.—Lou Tellegen, "Adonis of the stage," will not oppose the divorce suit filed in New York by his wife, Geraldine Farrar, he reiterated here.

"Let the lady have her divorce," was his laconic reply to questions concerning the action now before a referee in New York courts.

Tellegen declined to discuss details of the charges in Miss Farrar's complaint.

"I am an artist," he said, "and my art is for the public, but I think the public is not particularly interested in my private affairs."

Miss Nina Romano, who is playing in a sketch with Tellegen at a local theater, denied that she was the "Spanish" woman mentioned in Miss Farrar's divorce suit.

The divorce proceeding hearing was again postponed until today. Attorneys for both parties spent the day trying to get in touch with Justice Cohalan for a ruling on whether the hearings were to be private or open.

GLOSSY NAILS

It is not vanity but commonsense to keep the nails well polished. The friction of the buffer over the nail stimulates the circulation of blood, bringing a fresh supply to nourish and rejuvenate the nail. The only way in which polishing the nails could be harmful would be when polishing powder is used. This, of course, is necessary when the nails are done only once a week or so, but if they are rubbed for a few moments every day I do not think they will need this extra help. Polishing powders are invariably drying, though their use once a week or so will not hurt you, especially if you use oil when you manicure.

If your nails show ridges or if they have any tendency towards ridges nothing is better than a daily two-minute polish. When the ridges are bad they should be worn smooth with a bit of fine pumice stone or even scraped, if you can do it very carefully, with a tiny bit of broken glass. Then each nail should be carefully rubbed with heavy oil (vaseline is very good for the purpose) wiped dry and polished. After such a treatment you will have to use polishing powder, and you will have to polish vigorously to get off all the fittle scratches. Afterwards, when the nail presents a smooth and glossy surface, you can scrub off the powder with soap, water and a nailbrush and then rub with oil again so as to feed this newly exposed surface of the nail.

There are other reasons for keeping the nails well polished. A good gloss will redeem even an indifferent manicure, while nails that are well shaped, well polished and smooth around the edges will make even the homeliest hand attractive.

Readers often ask me for polishing powder formula. There are so many good preparations on the market at every sort of price that it does not pay to make them.

Mrs. T. J. H. — For reducing flesh over the back and shoulder there are the arm-swinging exercises and exercises which cause you to bend from the waist. An excellent one is the exercise where you bend and touch the floor with the finger tips while keeping the knees straight. While any exercise that is vigorous enough to quicken the circulation will reduce but it will also develop flesh when it is needed. Deep breathing will also reduce any waist, for it will develop all these parts, including the bust.

F. N. D. & John T.—There are any number of good tooth pastes on the market that will keep the teeth free from stains. If you do not succeed in removing the blemishes, after a short time, have your dentist give the professional cleansing with powdered pumice.

CANADIANS URGE NEW BORDER PACT

U. S. Concentration of Air Units in Michigan Stirs Up a Protest

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Canada objects to the United States air forces along the border and is interested primarily in revision of the Rush-Bagot agreement, fixing armaments on the Great Lakes, because this treaty makes no mention of aircraft, it was learned.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who recently came to Washington and discussed the matter with Secretary of State Hughes, is reported to be disturbed over the concentration of American forces along the border, particularly at Selfridge Field, Michigan.

The Rush-Bagot agreement was concluded more than a hundred years ago. When Premier Mackenzie King came to Washington there was much mystery about the object of his visit. The treaty provided that the Great Lakes armaments be limited to four vessels of one hundred tons burden, carrying four cannon of less than eighteen pounds caliber.

The Canadian government was aroused by the movement of American air forces from Kelly Field, Texas, to Selfridge Field. Canadian authorities, Washington believes, have become thoroughly converted to the idea of the superiority of aircraft over naval vessels.

Canadian proposals for a substitute treaty are before the state department. These proposals have been studied for some weeks. It is understood several objections have been raised against them. Mr. Hughes himself is known to be opposed to certain provisions of the Canadian proposals and will object to any restrictions which interfere with domestic arrangements to establish air stations.

Six Newest Novels for $1.50

Every lover of a good story, I am sure, will be interested in the six newest novels, by nationally known authors, which will appear during 1923 in

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

First, there's Hawkeye, by Herbert Quick, a sequel to Vandemark's Folly (and in many ways better)—it begins next month.

The Amateur Inn, by Albert Payson Terhune, is an amazing mystery story soon to come. Worldly Goods, by Sophie Kerr, will follow. Then there will be a bookful of Booth Tarkington's lovable people, and a romance of international affairs by George Weston. Last of the six, but first to appear, is Silver Moon, by Eleanor Hallowell Abbott. This unique story has just begun—but there's plenty of time for you to enjoy it, together with all the many features of interest to every thinking woman, if you'll just let me call for your order today.

Remember, the total cost is only one dollar and a half.

Last month I began a series of four articles intended to help the housekeeper in her purchases of dress goods. The following chart of wool goods finishes the set:

Broadcloth: This is familiar to us all, made from woolen yarns and closely woven with a satin finish. The surface is napped in the finishing process and then pressed down. The best qualities are called "satin broadcloth," and the housekeeper should not expect to get a good quality unless she pays a good price for it. Ladies Cloth is much like Broadcloth, but is not as heavy.

Cheviot is somewhat like serge, although heavier and often rougher in finish. Some cheviots are called "diagonals."

Albatross, Cashmere, Challie and Henrietta are all light-weight wool materials used for dresses, wrappers and children's clothes. All are made in flowered or figured design, the design being either printed on, or woven into the cloth. Henrietta and Cashmere come in twilled weave.

Melton and Covert Cloth are used widely for suits and overcoats. They are heavy, firm materials. Melton generally comes in black and dark blue, and is thick with a short nap. Covert is twilled and most often found in undyed natural shades.

Bolivia Cloth is now extremely fashionable and is an excellent purchase.

Velour is thick, soft-felted and is also splendid for suits and coats.

Bedford Cord should be familiar to all women. It is a fine woolen cloth with ribs of different widths running with the length. Make sure to ascertain whether it is all wool or whether the raised ribs are padded with cotton.

Lindsey - Woolsey: This is frankly a linen-and-wool mixture. When the housekeeper wishes an inexpensive skirt for ordinary use, she can do no better than buy this.

Prunella is a rich, satin-faced worsted fabric. Voile is fine for dresses. Zibeline, if a good grade, is woven with a worsted wrap and a camel's hair filling. Panama Cloth is a good purchase.

Diet and Health

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My dear Followers: I must remind you that, owing to the great number of letters I receive each day, it is impossible for me to answer you unless you abide by the rules of our column. This means short letters, not more than 250 words, plainly written in ink: And it means that you must enclose for my reply an envelope that you have stamped and fully addressed to yourself. A blank envelope and a loose stamp won't do. Please remember!

Mrs. H.:—I think if you will gain to normal weight you will find your skin condition will improve. Perhaps its roughness and inactivity would be improved by a glycerin solution. Glycerin one-quarter, rose water three-quarters, and carbolic acid, on or two drops to every ounce of the solution.

H. H.:—There is no doubt that if you reduce your weight you will reduce your high blood pressure. Send for our pamphlet on reducing and also the one on high blood pressure. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 4 cents in stamps.

Mrs. M.:—You certainly have your share of troubles. How many of them depend upon the fact that you are considerably overweight I cannot say. It is surprising how many troubles of the overweight do cease after a reduction. Of course if you have gall stones and they are too large to pass through the gall bladder tubes down to the intestines, you would have to be operated on to get them out. Nothing will dissolve them. Gall stones do seem to form in persons who habitually over-eat and under-exercise. There is no doubt but that your rheumatic pains will largely go away after you reduce.

Mrs. M.:—You won't yawn your head off if you get the right diet for your needs.

"Dear Doctor:

"I have reduced from 215 to 195 in two months. I have been off my calories during the holidays. Please tell me, Doctor, will I always have to eat so little? I do enjoy everything I eat from corn bread to ice cream and find it awfully hard to abstain. I don't sleep well but feel perfectly well.....Mrs. W."

Enjoying what you eat is a sign, primarily, of good health. But here's what those of us who are inclined to overweight have to know—we have to know that we must change our tastes so that we are not so fond of the foods that are high in the fuel or caloric value because—I have to give this blow, but I must—we never will be able to go back to our old habits of eating without putting on weight again, and the sooner we recognize that fact the better for us. No one is able to over-eat without putting on fat or disease or both.

But if we persist long enough in our correct habits of eating until we reduce our weight, then at least some of the old longings disappear. For instance, personally I used to be very fond of ice cream and chocolates. They tempt me not at all now. I still am very fond of cereals and cream but as it has been my habit for years to have nothing but a cup of coffee for breakfast I never have the cereals and cream. So I have ceased to reckon with them in my youthful existence.

I seldom eat butter. I learned to go without that when I was overseas and we could not get it and I never have gone back to the free use of it. I still have to watch my calories, however, and expect to have to do so all my life, and intend to. You will learn to do the same and become reconciled to it.

Save a hundred calories to eat or drink before you retire. You will sleep better.

A. V.:—The disagreeable odor coming from the nose, followed by a bad headache and a heavy feeling over the right eye would indicate that you might have a sinus infection. The bones around the nose, the cheek bones and the bones over the eyes have spaces in them which communicate with the nose. They are called sinuses and sometimes infections from the nose will travel to them. You will have to see a specialist on the nose and throat for this condition.

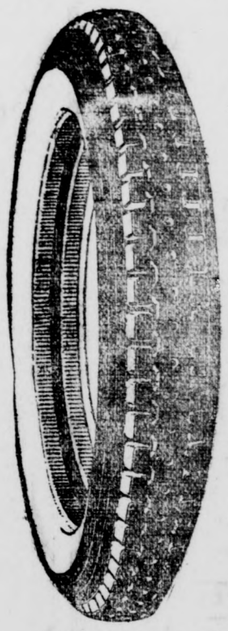
How Much More Do Your Tires Cost You?

Scores of Auto Owners Answer That Question Daily at

"Western Auto"

In the face of recent price advances, "Western Auto" has steadfastly announced "NO ADVANCE IN TIRE PRICES." Tremendous buying power, together with keen foresight in placing timely contracts, enable this announcement. Again "Western Auto" lives up to the slogan "MORE FOR YOUR MONEY."



Western Giant Cords

About a year ago we introduced to the motorists of the West the tire that has filled a long-felt need and has become very popular—the tire that "stands up" under severe road conditions—the tire that has proven worthy of our name and guarantee. We are receiving letters in every mail telling us: "The best tire I ever used"—"am using three and will want another soon"—"have driven more than four months and not a mark on it yet"—"wearing fine and never a skid."

You will have a similar experience if you equip with Western Giant Cords.

Fabric Tires

There are three grades to choose from: The Western Giant, guaranteed 8000 miles; Pharis, guaranteed 7000 miles, and the Nebraska, guaranteed 6000 miles. These tires are built for endurance and give you the service you have a right to expect. Our old prices are still in effect for a limited time. Come in and get your tires NOW.

34th ANNIVERSARY
Security Trust & Savings Bank

February 11th marks the Thirty-fourth Anniversary of the opening of this Bank. It started in business on that date in 1889, in small and unpretentious quarters on Main Street, Los Angeles. At the close of its first year it had deposits of $154,000. Today its deposits exceed $170,000,000.

Then, one small banking room—today 23 banking offices covering Los Angeles, Hollywood, Long Beach, Pasadena, Glendale, Santa Monica, San Pedro, Huntington Beach, Highland Park, Eagle Rock, South Pasadena, Burbank, Montebello and Lankershim.

These thirty-four years of stability and growth imply sound management. A bank with such a record is a good depositary in which to carry your account.

Do YOU Want to OWN Your Own Home?

How much of a home you can own depends upon your saving ability

$18.00 per month acquires a $3000.00 Home
$30.00 per month acquires a $5000.00 Home
$40.00 per month acquires a $7500.00 Home
$50.00 per month acquires a $9500.00 Home

THE METHOD

by which this is accomplished is through loan contracts of the WESTERN MUTUAL FINANCE COMPANY.

Suppose you wished to secure a $5000.00 home. Thirty dollars per month invested in loan contracts of the Western Mutual Finance Company will, when the loan is made, afford sufficient cash to pay down over half the cost of the home. The balance can be handled through a straight second mortgage which subsequently can be lifted with additional contracts.

This is a safe and sure way of acquiring a home on easy monthly payments plan at a minimum interest cost, and at a very low rate of interest.

You cannot afford to miss this opportunity. Call or write for further information.

BRING ON WILLS! AGREES WILLARD

Jess Will Take on Negro Fight Preliminary to Dempsey Contest

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Jess Willard capitulated to public sentiment today and proclaimed his desire to waft a formal fist at the chin of Harry Wills for the privilege of meeting Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight championship and the contents of the box office. Floyd Johnson, Tom Gibbons and Luis Angel Firpo are to be accorded a similar courtesy, on request, it was stated. Announcement to this effect was made without ceremony by Willard's man of business, Ray Archer.

"Yes, Wills," declared Archer today, in answer to a question. "Jess will take on the negro at any time and place that proves acceptable. If this match does not come through, he will turn his attention to Johnson, Gibbons, Firpo or any man who figures to give him a good battle. No! No one is barred.

"It is said that the public has demanded that Jess meet another contender in order to prove his ability before signing with Dempsey. Very well. They seem to think a lot of Wills around here. Bring him on. We are ready to make the match."

A Willard-Wills match, granted official clemency, would be one of the biggest heavyweight attractions of the modern era and cash customers would swarm all over Boyle's thirty acres to see it. Regardless of adverse comment by sport writers on the subject of Willard's return to the ring, the public is keenly interested in his activities. As a co-attraction, Wills is of the best.

Captain of Berkeley Football Team Weds

ALAMEDA, Cal., Feb. 7.—George H. Latham, captain of the 1921 University of California football team, and his bride, who was Miss Mary Loretta Brady of Spokane, Wash., were on their way to the northern city today on a honeymoon trip. Latham and Miss Brady, also a U. C. graduate, were married late yesterday.

Youthful Boxer Dies After Ten-Round Bout

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 7.—Cameron Perry, 18, who participated in a boxing bout at Port Clinton, died yesterday.

Perry boxed Jack Duffey, Toledo, ten rounds to a draw. After the show he complained of severe headache. Doctors were called and remained with him all night.

County authorities at Port Clinton are investigating.

Heiress to Hostetter Millions Wins Divorce

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Myram Hostetter Smith, society beauty and heiress to the millions of D. Herbert Hostetter of Pittsburg, was granted a divorce from Malcolm K. Smith, wealthy insurance broker and clubman. Evidence involving a "red haired woman" was given.

William K. Doran, private detective, testified:

"Once I saw Smith kiss her on the mouth and pat her cheeks. He appeared so jubilant over meeting the woman that he jumped over a fire plug in the street."

Mrs. Smith's elopement and marriage took place at Monroe, Mich., in 1920 in defiance of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter, of Pittsburg. There is one child.

Johnny Dundee Loses Bout to Tony Julian

GRAPPLERS WILL CONTEST TONIGHT

Perman of Fresno Wrestles Hackenschmidt of Glendale at I. O. O. F. Hall

Glendale wrestling fans are saving their voices until tonight when they expect to awake the echoes of the I. O. O. F. hall, 201 West Broadway, at the grappling match between William Perman of Fresno and John Hackenschmidt of Glendale.

Preliminaries to this match will be a four-round bout between "Paddy Duffy" of Tujunga and Walter Dodge of Glendale and a wrestling match between Joe Bauer of Glendale and "Young George" of Los Angeles.

Nishion Parsekion of 119 West Broadway, who is promoting the card, stated this morning that all contestants were in excellent condition and were expected to put up a good exhibition.

Mr. Perman arrived in Glendale several days ago and has been training in the High school gymnasium. Mr. Hackenschmidt has been working on the building under construction at Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue for some time.

Detective Sergeant W. J. Royle has agreed to act as official announcer.

Owing to the fact that this card has been extensively advertised in nearby cities and to the fact that all contestants have many backers, a large attendance is expected.

Probe Use of Funds By Anti-Saloon Head

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The final quizzing of William H. Anderson, head of the anti-saloon league of New York, on charges of mishandling the funds of the league has been started by Ferdinand Pecora, assistant district attorney in charge of the investigation.

Pecora said that his interrogation of Anderson probably would last far into the night.

What action he would take after finishing the quizz he declined to make public. But it is known that he will either submit the evidence before the grand jury or report to District Attorney Banton, advising that there is no evidence meriting further investigation.

The WORLD OVER
By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

All of the golf courses of the northwest are lacking in what is termed a permanent turf, according to William H. Tucker, Sr., a golf course construction engineer, and turf expert from New York, who is making a visit of the Pacific coast links.

By permanent Mr. Tucker means a turf that is lasting, and one on which a club does not have to spend large sums of money each year to keep its greens and fairways in shape.

Doubtless as Mr. Tucker wends his way southward, he will find the same conditions existing in the case of the big majority of the California links. There probably is only one course in California where a scientific and laborious effort has been made for the purpose of discovering a grass seed formula which will work out to the best effect.

This course is that of the Coronado Country club where the fairways and greens are said to be the best on the Pacific coast. Experiments have been made in the mixing of various grass seeds in order to determine on a combination that will stand the wear as well as present a fine appearance, and the officials of this links believe they have solved the problem as far as their own particular climatic and soil needs are concerned.

Climate and soils differ and so it will be necessary for each locality to work out its own salvation as the Coronado Golf and Country club has done. To take their formula and use it somewhere else would prove nothing saving perhaps a failure in that particular locality.

Proceeding, Mr. Tucker says: Instead of getting at the basis of the trouble the clubs are attempting to remedy it by working from the top. A hidebound turf condition exists on practically every course. It is impossible to obtain permanent turf because the subsoil structure is so cohesive and tenacious that subdraining and aeration are eliminated. This restricts the root action of the fescue turf, as fescue roots reach their limit after penetrating the top soil and become club rooted. They are stopped from penetrating deeper by the hard subsoil strata.

"The top soil strata of most northwest courses is a fine one-inch strata, dense and fine in texture and will produce lasting turf if keyed to subsoil structure which will let the fescue roots penetrate to a depth of from six to eight inches. Deep roots produce a hardy and good wearing turf that will resist drought.

"The remedy is simple. Just give the soil a chance to breathe by loosening the subsoil."

THEATRES

The GLENDALE

"Broken Chains," the great Goldwyn $10,000 prize photoplay, shows for today for the last times, at the Glendale theater. Patrons who appreciate a really fine film drama, on which production money has been lavished to good advantage, should not miss today's performances.

It is a tremendously engrossing drama of a man's regeneration from cowardice through an appeal to his chivalrous nature. Allen Holubar, the director of a score of triumphs, handled the megaphone. Among those in the cast are Claire Windsor, Colleen Moore, Malcolm McGregor, Ernest Torrence, Peter Wyndham and many others.

It is easy to understand why "Broken Chains" won the big award over a field of 32,000 submitted manuscripts. It is because it abounds in the situations of life at its most dramatic moments, honestly portrayed.

The T. D. & L.

Glorious Gloria Swanson, supported by that dashing idol of the screen, Antonio Moreno, offers her latest photoplay feature, "My American Wife," at the T. D. & L. theater today. This is one of the best pictures in which Miss Swanson has appeared. It will continue on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Tomorrow (Thursday) there will be no pictures at the T. D. & L. The Shrine club of Glendale, instead, will stage its three-act musical comedy, "Smile Again," in the afternoon at 2:15 o'clock and again at night at 8:15 o'clock.

All seats are reserved, and they are going fast. Now is the time to get your seat. "It's going to be some show!" states Manager Ralph Allan. "Plenty of girls, plenty of action and pep, good music and songs, special costume and fashion revue. Don't miss it!"

OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB

BOND ISSUE

A Conservative Investment Plus Attractive Features

ISSUE. THE OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB of GLENDALE offers the unsold portion of 75 First Mortgage, Ten-Year, six per cent, coupon Trust Deed Notes of $2,000 denomination each, plus accrued interest from date of issue, December 1, 1922. Interest payable semi-annually at the rate of six per cent.

PROPERTY. This issue is a first lien on 109 Acres of the finest land in Verdugo Canyon which, exclusive of all improvements to be made, is conservatively appraised by experts to be worth $436,000.

IMPROVEMENTS. This property will be immediately improved by one of the finest Golf Courses in Southern California, the construction of which is under the direct personal supervision of Mr. Max Behr, one of the foremost Golf Architects in the United States. The Clubhouse, of English architecture, will have a commodious main lounge, main dining-room, men's grill, men's locker-room with showers attached, ladies' quarters embracing cardrooms, dressing-room, showers and lockers, as well as a separate Golf Shop and Caddy House, Swimming Pool and covered parking space. These improvements will add $175,000 additional security to the bond-holders.

NET EARNINGS. Conservative estimates by experienced Country Club Executives, places the net earnings of the club at two and one-half times the interest requirements of this issue.

$1,000 BONUS. The purchaser of each $2,000 Bond will receive a LIFE MEMBERSHIP in the OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB gratis. These life memberships are now selling at $1,000, and within a year will increase in value approximately 50%.

These memberships are exempt from dues—a saving of $10 per month—and are perpetual, transferable, and can be handed down with your estate in case of death.

GLENDALE. This offer is made first to the people of Glendale, as it is a Glendale enterprise, with sound, conservative Glendale men in control of the Directorate, is located in the corporate limits of Glendale, and will benefit the city of Glendale immensely.

TRUSTEES. The Hellman Commercial Trust and Savings Bank act as Trustees, the proceeds of this issue being placed with them in escrow till the sale of the issue is completed, at which time they disburse the money to the grantors of the land and the balance for construction purposes only.

SUBSCRIPTIONS. Will be alloted in the order received. Check for ten per cent of your subscription should accompany application.

The Board of Directors reserve the right to return the subscription of any who are not acceptable for membership in the club.

U. S. Plans Further Fight Upon Narcotics

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The government's next step to combat the narcotic curse in the United States will be an effort to bring all nations into international agreement to allow search, seizure and confiscation of all drugs found illegitimately on ships used as carriers by dope smugglers, it was learned today.

The government narcotic board, comprising Secretaries Hughes, Hoover and Mellon, recognize this as the only alternative which this government now can adopt to check the drug menace, which is claiming a greater number of victims in the United States than any other country on the globe.

The board's conclusion follows a world survey on the drug evil, and a study of possible methods to cope with it at its source. An expert survey of the problem, in all its angles, has just been completed for the government by the far eastern division of the commerce department. Recommendations prepared by F. R. Eldridge, far eastern expert, were made public today.

The government, it was declared, faces three alternatives in war on the drug traffic both within and outside the borders of the United States.

Prisoners Attempt to Destroy Penitentiary

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Feb. 7.—Six prisoners were in solitary confinement in the dungeons today as a result of an attempt to burn the state penitentiary. Nearly 800 prisoners employed in the jute mills were endangered by the fire, which is believed to have been started by the six in an effort to engineer a general jail break.

Flames broke out simultaneously from twenty-one of the huge looms on which the jute is woven just before the day's work was done last evening. Instantly the mill was filled with smoke. All available guards were mustered to fight the flames and hundreds of prisoners assisted.

The alleged ring leaders are Ernest Damme, serving five years from Los Angeles; George Smith, ten years from Sacramento; Phillip Murphy, four years from Riverside; Charles Franklin, three years from Kings county; Leo Hurst, five years from Los Angeles, and John Johnson, lifer, San Francisco.

Former Governor Held On Contempt Charges

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Feb. 7.—Former Governor Bilbo was arrested here on a charge of contempt of court, preferred by federal court officers in connection with his failure to appear as a subpoenaed witness in the famous scandal suit of Miss Francis Birkhead against Governor Lee M. Russell. He was immediately taken before a United States commissioner where he was given a hearing and admitted to bonds of $5000, which was furnished by friends.

Autos in Collision On Colorado Street

Colorado street and Verdugo road were the scene of a collision about 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon between automobiles driven by Hugh T. Owens of Los Angeles and Mrs. Ellen Stout of Manhattan Beach.

"I was driving my car south on Verdugo road at a speed of eighteen miles per hour," remarked Mr. Owens. "I slowed down at the intersection of Verdugo road and Colorado street when a car coming west on Colorado struck my rear fender, denting it badly and smashing my running board."

Sec. Hughes May Ignore Request of Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — The question as to whether Secretary Hughes is to appear in person before the senate foreign relations committee to be quizzed about America's reparations policy will be left up to Mr. Hughes himself, it was decided.

Without comment or explanation, the committee decided at an executive session to forward to Mr. Hughes a letter from Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, requesting that he appear before it.

Murderer of Wealthy Chinaman Slays Self

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—What threatened to develop into a tong war that would sweep the entire state after Quan Foo, wealthy Chinese merchant, was shot and killed in Marchessault street, and the finding of the dead body of Quam Num, who did the shooting, in an alley, was cleared up when the police learned it was a case of murder and suicide.

Witnesses to the shooting told the police that after Num had shot Foo he committed suicide by firing three bullets into his chest.

ITALIAN PEOPLE FAVOR MARRIAGE

Betrothal of Princess to Suitor Is Described as Love Match

By GUGLIELMO EMMANUEL
For International News Service

ROME, Feb. 7.—Count Calvi di Bergolo, whose engagement to Princess Yolanda, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel, is announced, is now in Rome, paying as ardent suit to his betrothed as any commoner ever did.

There are continuous gifts of flowers, candy and books to the palace. The people are delighted with the engagement, which is accepted as a true love match.

There are now members of two royal European families betrothed: Princess Yolanda and the Duke of York, son of King George and Queen Mary of England.

The count is 35 years old and comes from good Piedmontese stock, although not a member of the most prominent aristocracy. He is not a rich man, not even well to do, according to the American standard of riches.

Princess Yolanda is just entering her 22nd year. She is a slender girl with black hair and flashing black eyes. The sweetness of her countenance has made her a favorite study for portrait painters. She has been trained as a home maker and is an accomplished needle woman. Her chief outdoor recreations are swimming and tennis.

After the marriage, the date of which has not been set, the couple will live in the count's old castle in Piedmont. Both are Roman Catholics.

Taylor Estate Goes to Slain Man's Daughter

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—By an order on file in the superior court, the entire estate of the late William Desmond Taylor, slain motion picture director, whose murder over a year ago has never been solved, was ordered given to his daughter, Ethel Daisy Dean Taylor, of Mamaroneck, N. Y. The estate, consisting of jewelry, bonds, and the receipts from the sale of personal effects, was appraised at $18,733.

Slacker Bergdoll to Forfeit Entire Estate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, noted draft dodger, will have no portion of his property returned to him by the bill restoring $10,000 estates seized by the government during the war.

A special provision exempting the properties of fugitives from justice was written into the bill by the house interstate and foreign commerce committee.

PLANS FOR HOTEL WILL BE TOLD

Mrs. M. L. Tight Issues Call For Meeting at City Hall This Evening

Mrs. M. L. Tight, chairman of the hotel committee of the Glendale Advancement association, sends the following self-explanatory communication to The Glendale Evening News:

"The committee appointed by the Glendale Advancement association for the purpose of promoting a hotel building on the corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue, on what is known as the Ambrosini property, wish to report that after considerable delay and hard work, they have come to the conclusion, and it is the unanimous opinion of the committee, that we plan on purchasing the entire property from the Ambrosini Hotel company, for a consideration of $75,000, according to an option which your committee has had from the Ambrosini Hotel company for the past sixty days or more, and upon which there has been advanced the sum of $2425.

"This option provides for the payment of $50,000 in cash and a mortgage given to Ambrosini & Company for the sum of $10,000 covering the two north lots on Glendale avenue, and for the balance of the $15,000, Ambrosini & Company offer to accept stock in the corporation in payment.

"It is the plan of your committee to take over a corporation already organized, thereby saving considerable time and expense in organization.

Calls Meeting

"Sufficient subscriptions have been taken to put over this proposition at this time, therefore, your committee is calling a meeting of all interested parties, at the City Hall, Wednesday night, February 7, at 7:30 o'clock sharp, and requests that you be present at this meeting, as it is the intention to arrange for the full organization of the corporation, as well as to select officers and directors to handle the affairs of the corporation, also discuss plans of the building to be erected, together with financing of same.

"It is the purpose of your committee to report at this meeting fully, on the doings of your committee, together with statement and plans that have been worked out by them.

"This is a very important meeting and your committee is very anxious to have a large attendance. Please arrange to be present.

"Yours truly,
"M. L. TIGHT,
"Chairman of Hotel Committee, Glendale Advancement Association."

Corporations Fail to Pay Tax for License

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 7.—More than 3,000 California corporations became delinquent in the payment of the annual state corporation license tax at midnight Monday night, Everett Gardiner, superintendent of the corporation license department of the secretary of state's office announced. Gardiner's check indicates the tax totals about $1,000,000.

SOUTH GLENDALE

George M. Stull of 1424 South San Fernando road is slightly ill.

George B. Karr, manager of the shirt factory at 1725 South Brand boulevard, went to Los Angeles yesterday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. McLean are moving this week from 1531 South Central avenue to their new home at Elizabeth Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Jackson and son, Wesley, of 216 Eulalia street motored to Belvidere Gardens, near Whittier, Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reilly of 3034 Dolores street yesterday visited Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brenkman at 1524 South San Fernando road.

Thure! Conner expects to reopen the market at 448 West Los Feliz road at the end of this week. He has been visiting relatives in Holtville, Imperial Valley.

After working about six weeks in his blacksmith shop at 413 West Los Feliz road with three broken ribs, J. A. Malch is now resting at his home at 414 Fernando court.

Concrete foundations are now in place at 1715 South San Fernando road for the new Gateway theater. A construction company of Los Angeles is now making plans to commence the superstructure.

Miss Kathleen Campbell of North Glendale, who graduated last week from high school, is getting her first taste of business life at 1726 South San Fernando road in the office of the Community Trust & Savings bank.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McBurney of 1408 South San Fernando road are looking forward to the annual Hawkeye picnic. This will be held on Washington's birthday in Lincoln Park, Los Angeles. They are from Freemont, Iowa.

Kellastone exterior finish is now illustrated in a new garage just completed at 460 West Los Feliz road for the Bentley Lumber company. This has five different Kellastone panels, each a different shade of color. According to George Bentley, this material is absolutely waterproof and crackproof.

Quite Comfortable Here Talking About Telephones Investment Opportunities Laughing at Us Humans

By Gil A. Cowan

WE are quite comfortable, thank you, in Southern California while the middle west is enjoying the pangs of wintry weather.

And only two months ago they were boasting back there in Illinois there was no need of going to California. So some of 'em stayed.

Then when a little snow fell on the foothills near here the Chicago papers chided us, but, believe me, when it snows in Southern California there is going to be a lot more snow back east.

Storms move over the mountains to the east and they do not get going good until they reach the corn belt. The Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and the other central western group get it in the neck, so to speak.

At that we love the east, but California and its sunshine is so much better! Even a tenderfoot tourist will admit it.

Just received a copy of the Telephone Almanac, published by the American Telegraph & Telephone company. While it is filled with useful, useless and interesting information—as are all almanacs from time immemorial—there is a little anecdote worthy of republication:

"In January, 1922, a severe snow storm visited Washington, D. C. The next morning a local business man, on the way to his office, overtook a girl struggling through the drifts. He helped her for a few blocks and then said, "This is too much for me. I'm going to turn back. I can do my business over the telephone anyhow. You'd better go home, too."

"No," said the girl. "I'll keep on. I am a telephone operator."

Members of the Exchange, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs on Friday will have an opportunity of seeing a telephone exchange in operation.

Also, they will have the privilege of hearing and seeing the talented telephone girls "who carry on" through storm, fire and adversity.

More power to their gentle voices!

Incidentally, the new office buildings to be built here with their four and six stories, provide a mathematical problem for Fred Deal, Glendale manager of the phone company, who has to figure out what they will need in the way of equipment.

Southern California—the land of opportunity. Every day sees a new quota coming here seeking to establish industries, to finance commercial enterprises or to enter some other line of endeavor and one cannot help but wonder, "Where do they all come from?"

There arises, too, the question as to how financial resources are to keep apace and when we turn to the bank deposits and look upon the residences of the wealthy in the Wilshire district of Los Angeles or Orange Grove avenue of Pasadena, the query reverses itself to what shall all of this money turn into?

Well, besides the grounds and homes and schools and churches of Southern California, there is growing to be such things as bond markets, boards of trade, stock yards — everything that every other metropolitan area has and a few they have not. As years go on this great southwest will have the greatest population of any area in the country, its products will be of most value and its wealth inestimable.

While for the passing years New York has held a wondrous lead, there is no reason to believe but what Los Angeles will equal and outdistance Gotham. All of which is a pretty broad statement for easterners to understand until they come out here, look over the situation, then get far enough away to see the truth in it.

City officials consider vaccination of pets.

As far as we're concerned they can vaccinate trees, wooden legs or any old thing, if they wish.

But vaccination and its results on the human is open to argument and we seriously doubt if cats, canary birds, dogs and parrots will take kindly to the suggestion.

In fact, we have often thought that a dumb animal must laugh at some of the monkey business of us humans, not to mention such things as goat glands, etc.

Little excitement can be expressed at school enrollments setting a new mark. It is only the natural development of the human race, not forgetting those who move here.

Real news would be found in causes for decreased enrollment.

Jerseyites to Stage Annual Rally Friday

New Jersey folks—front and center! Friday, February 9, is the big night. The place is the Angeles hotel, Fourth and Spring streets, Los Angeles. The event? Why, it's the annual New Jersey rally.

A fine program of music and readings has been arranged, and afterward there will be roll call of counties and prize giving.

LOSS OF BULLDOG

The loss of a Boston bull with a white and black face has been reported from 334 West Colorado street by Frank Ozenghar.

REPORT SCHOOLS OVERCROWDED

Board Approves Employing Of Three Additional Grade Teachers

Problems connected with the new term of school were discussed last night by the grammar school board of education.

An enrollment of 3923 pupils was reported by Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools. He stated that the overcrowding was particularly noticeable at Central, Colorado and Acacia schools, and in the Doran kindergarten. He recommended the appointment of three additional teachers and was authorized to act with Mrs. A. A. Barton and Mrs. Arthur Brown, members of the teachers' committee, in making their selection.

Dr. G. Kaemmerling, city health officer, conferred with the board in regard to the prevention of minor contagious diseases. The fact was brought out that one of the lower grades at the Columbus school is not in session this week because of a number of active and latent cases of measles.

School Nurse Reports

Over 456 children were examined last month by Miss Helen Tupper, school nurse, according to her monthly report. She stated that 117 previously unobserved defects were observed and that 33 previously observed defects had been improved and 136 not improved.

The Near East relief was given permission to use the school buildings after school hours to display a moving picture illustrating the relief work in Asia Minor. Request for this action was made by Mrs. Charles V. LaFontaine of Los Angeles. She stated that the price of admission to the show would be a can of condensed milk.

Protect Children

The question of protecting children crossing the streets in the vicinity of schools was discussed. The fact was brought out that police officers have been detailed at certain hours of the day to the Cerritos and Colorado schools. Empowering of the more advanced pupils to act as traffic officers was suggested. The board decided to wait and see how this plan works in Los Angeles.

A new bungalow on the Glendale avenue intermediate grounds and the Broadway grounds was officially received from Contractor G. Edwin Murphy.

Four Grammar School Teachers Reported Ill

Illness is the cause of four teachers being absent from the grammar school system.

Miss Anabel McClellan of 126 North Central avenue is absent from fourth grade of the Central school and her place is being taken by Mrs. Jessie E. Loucks of 449 Salem street.

Miss Margaret Lauderdale of 334 West Doran street was unable to take charge of the Pacific kindergarten this morning. Mrs. Helen R. Salisbury of 616 North Orange street is substituting.

Mrs. Hazel E. Williams of 425 West Harvard street is absent from the fifth grade at Broadway school. Her place is being taken by Miss Loretta P. Starr of 1602 South Brand boulevard.

Miss Faith Tarling of 426 South Adams street, kindergarten assistant at Pacific school, is ill, also.

Local Tailor Removes Shop to New Location

Fred Minden, merchant tailor, has announced the removal of his tailoring shop to his new location at 322 East Broadway. New stocks of domestic and imported woolens have been received in stock and Mr. Linden states that he is now prepared to take care of the spring rush.

Minden asserts that all suits are made right in his own shop and nothing but first class guaranteed work and materials go into the make-up of any garment.

Missourians Picnic in Sycamore Grove Park

Plans are now complete for the big Missourian all-day picnic and rally coming this Saturday, February 10, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles.

Following the dinner there will be a brief program presented. At headquarters registers will be open for each county in the state.

Visitors and tourists are invited to spend the day with the home state people.

Money spent in Glendale helps to make Glendale a bigger and better city.

The average height of the land above the sea level is 1500 feet.

RETIRING ENVOY SEES PEACE ERA

U.-S. Japanese Relations On Friendly Basis, Warren Declares

HONOLULU, Feb. 7.—An era of peace and good understanding on the Pacific was predicted here by the retiring United States ambassador to Japan, Charles Beecher Warren, and Masanao Hanihara, the new Japanese ambassador to Washington.

"Situations which made relations between the United States and Japan potentially dangerous when I left for Tokio more than a year ago are now non-existent," Ambassador Warren said. "The task I went to help do has been done, otherwise I would not be here."

He intimated the United States did not like the Anglo-Japanese alliance and the disarmament conference was proposed to check its renewal.

"The four-power treaty has done away with the need for the Anglo-Japanese alliance," Warren declared. "It has stabilized the situation in the Far East, serves as a sort of bill of rights for China, and the Pacific region has entered upon a new period of stability."

Lauds Ambassador

Ambassador Hanihara, who announced while here he had no intention of taking up again the question of Japanese immigration to the United States, paid a tribute to Warren, saying:

"His work in Tokio was successful in bringing a better understanding between the two nations."

Warren announced he had no intention of taking up any other public office in the United States and after a few days at his home in Detroit he would proceed to Washington to report and tender his resignation.
